Robbery Is First Reported in Atlanta Where Liquor Runners Have Been Robbed of Property

Another unique angle was added to the already complex banditry and counter banditry system of the liquor traffic around Atlanta when two unmasked white "high-binders" early Thursday morning held up W. L. Braswell, night watchman of the Glannon garage, 69 Houston street, and calmly transferred 27 gallons of contraband fluid concealed in an automobile stored in the garage to their own car.

The liquor bandits made their escape and have not been captured. The night watchman told police that he had no idea that liquor was stored in any automobile parked in the garage, adding that the precision of the bandits' movements showed plainly that they knew exactly what the car contained and where it was located.

The unique robbery brings to mind a legal question as to whether the thieves could be prosecuted for stealing the whisky cargo. Information elicited from legal quarters tended to show that, while liable to charges of "pointing a pistol at another" or "carrying concealed weapons," the bandits are not open to prosecution for theft of the contraband fluid, title to which is not recognized by state or federal laws.

Police Interested.

The police were highly interested in the new "riffle" in the run traffic, regarding it as an indication of civil warfare among the various classes of run-runners and bootleggers. They declare that this is the first report in this section of operations of "high-binders"—men identified with the trade who steal whisky from other bootleggers.

The robbery, which was investigated by Police Sergeant Robert L. Waggoner and Call Officers J. Walter McWilliams and A. B. Niles, was "pulled off" in true western style, according to the night watchman, who told the police he considered himself lucky to be alive.

The bandits visited the place about 1:30 o'clock Thursday morning. Braswell was asleep upon the couch in the office. They knocked upon the door, telling him they wished to purchase some "gasoline" for their car which had just "stalled." Upon going to the door, Braswell found himself looking down the barrel of a large pistol, with instructions to keep his mouth shut and do as he was told.

"You have a car in here loaded with whisky, and we are going to take it," the spokesman stated. While one of the bandits forced Braswell to walk inside the garage beside the liquor car, the other drove their machine into the building.

Quickly they worked, transferring the whisky into their own car, and upon leaving gave Braswell a ride in Continued on Page 2, Column 5.

GEORGIA STATE BAPTIST CONVENTION—
LARGE ATTENDANCE—HARMONIOUS ACTION.

Rome.

The State Baptist Convention convened here at 10 o'clock today. Rev. David Emanuel Butler, of Madison, presided with great dignity.

The attendance is good, and the body presents a fine appearance.

The morning session was devoted to religious services and remarks on the death of Rev. W. L. Mansfield, of Marietta.

Delegates continue to arrive freely. The people of Rome are "doing the honors" of the occasion with more than their usual magnificence.

SOCIETY NEWS—DOUBLE WEDDING IN HIGH COLUMBUS.

The grand event of the season in this city came off last night, being a double wedding—Captain J. T. Glenn of Atlanta, and Miss Helen Garrard, and Mr. James W. Harris, of Mississippi, and Miss Gertrude Garrard.

The marriage came off at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. W. W. Garrard. Rev. J. H. Hall, pastor of the Presbyterian church, was the officiating clergyman. It was an elegant affair. The Atlanta delegation, especially the female portion, attracted marked attention. The bridal party will return to-morrow to Atlanta.

HARDING NOMINATION
PROGRAM STILL HOLDS

Republican Policy to Capitalize "Dryness" and to Make Democrats Appear "Wet."

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Washington, April 19.—There emerged in Washington yesterday a mention of Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, in connection with the republican presidential nomination, which is not very pregnant itself, but which has bearing on the "wet" and "dry" question in the campaign next year. So far as it has substance, the mention of Pinchot for the presidency came from some of the more zealous spirits in the Anti-Saloon League, and was based largely on the fact that Pinchot has just put through the Pennsylvania legislature a law-enforcement act which not only is exceptionally drastic as compared with that of any other state, but is really a spectacular performance considering what had been going on in Pennsylvania before Pinchot became governor.

Although New Jersey and New York are more widely advertised in this respect, it is probably fair to say that Pennsylvania, until Pinchot took hold of it, was really the wettest state in the country—wettest in the sense of lacking enforcement and also in the sense of a stubborn unwillingness to accept or practice enforcement on the part of considerable groups of its population.

Have Rigid Statute.

Today, by virtue of the act which Pinchot forced through by focusing the better elements of public opinion on a pretty unwilling legislature, Pennsylvania has a statute equal in its rigidity to the federal one. Further than that, everybody knows Pinchot will really enforce this law. His conception of obeying and enforcing the law includes actually practicing prohibition personally, and he will not expect anybody else to look for or to be given any greater immunity than he concedes to himself.

But there is very little actuality to the idea of Pinchot being put forward for the presidential nomination. The program of giving Harding his renomination still holds, although the frequency with which suggestions like Continued on Page 12, Column 4.

Stone Mountain Memorial Dinner Set for Tonight

Distinguished Gathering
Will Launch Formal Drive
for Carvings by Borglum.

Plans for the great memorial to the heroes of the confederacy on the granite sides of Stone Mountain will be outlined at a dinner at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Capital City club at which more than 300 of the leading men of the nation will be present as guests of the Stone Mountain Memorial association.

Hollis N. Randolph, chairman of the executive committee, of the association, will preside, and Dr. Ashby Jones, the son of General Robert E. Lee's chaplain, will deliver the principal address of the dinner.

Will Read President's Letter.

In the absence of President Warren G. Harding, Colonel C. O. Sherrill, his chief aide, will be present to read President Harding's letter of endorsement and active interest in the project.

Other well-known men from the northern states will include Judge C. J. Orison, of Indianapolis, Ind.; Lester Barlow, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Herbert Myrick, of Springfield, Mass.

A number of southern governors will be in attendance, including Governor Thomas W. Hardwick of Georgia, who will deliver an address of welcome from the state to the visitors, and Governor-elect Clifford Walker of Alabama, who are forced by affairs of state, to be absent, will be represented by men of eminent position.

Colonel W. McDonald Lee, of Richmond, commander-in-chief of the S. C. V., will represent Governor E. Lee Trinkle, of Virginia, Alex S. Salley, of Georgia, and others.

St. Louis, Mo., April 19.—Nine men were arrested and more than $2,000,000 worth of securities, stolen in the robbery of a mail truck here April 2, was recovered today in a spectacular raid by deputy postoffice inspectors and deputy sheriff, in St. Louis county, west of the city.

The loot was found in a bungalow at Richmond Heights occupied by William F. Deering, 29 years old, a tire salesman, and alleged gangster, who was arrested with Theodore Weisman, 28, of Johnson City, Ill., and William D. Williamson, 49. Six other men were arrested on suspicion at Clayton, the county seat, in connection with the hold-up.

Further search of the house revealed a small arsenal. Sawed-off shotguns, dynamite, fuses, revolvers and automatic shotguns were taken from hiding places by the officers, who declared these were the type of weapons that victims of the robbery told the police the bandits carried.

The men arrested on suspicion were at the courthouse at Clayton, where William P. Colbeck, alleged leader of a notorious gang, was on trial charged with bribery. The men, according to authorities, are implicated directly and indirectly in the mail robbery. Their names were withheld.

Two of the nine men arrested, Deering and Williamson, are believed by the police to have been participants in the hold-up in which six bandits took part.

According to postoffice inspectors, checking, all but $300,000 of the $2,800,000 taken in the robbery have been recovered.

OPERA VANGUARD TO ARRIVE SUNDAY

Beniamino Gigli, Lucrezia Bori, Billy Guard and Others Will Be Among the First.

Including Beniamino Gigli and Lucrezia Bori, the Romeo and Juliette of the opening opera of Atlanta's spring festival of music, the first detachment of the Metropolitan Opera company's musical stars will reach Atlanta Sunday, it was announced by officers of the Musical Festival association Thursday.

Accompanying the singers and other musicians will be Billy Guard, the present agent extraordinary for Gatti Cassana's great organization.

The other principals and the rest of the people connected with the Metropolitan's production will arrive Monday. The singers in Romeo and Juliette are coming a day earlier in order to get as much rest as possible at their hotel before the performance.

At the Cable Piano company store Thursday it was announced that "William Tell" and "Lucia" were apparently the most popular operas as indicated by advance seat sales, while "Don Carlos" was running a good third. "La Boheme" and "Romeo and Juliette" were nearly tied for fourth. Demand for seats for "Aida" and "L'Africaine" which had lagged at first, was reported to be picking up. The interest is more evenly divided than usual among all seven operas, it was stated.

BRANDS HERSELF AS ILLEGITIMATE TO OBTAIN ESTATE

Chicago, April 18.—Branding herself as an illegitimate child in order to obtain the estate of the man she claims was her father, Mrs. Ena Welch, formerly an actress and noted beauty, is suing for $400,000 left by the late Alderman Charles F. Swigart.

Mrs. Sarah Davis, Mrs. Welch's mother, was once Swigart's housekeeper. Later they were married. "I know that Alderman Swigart was my father," Mrs. Welch declared in court Wednesday. "My mother told me so many times. She afterward married Mr. Swigart, but that was several years after I was born."

The money is now held in trust for Swigart's sister, Emma, who is prevented from gaining control of it by a mental infirmity.

Attorneys for the trust claim Mrs. Welch was born on Wolf Island, part of Canada, and that she was not brought to Chicago until she was five years old.

LUCKIE WIDENING PLAN IS INDORSED AT MASS MEETING

Immense Advantages to Property Owners Are Outlined in Enthusiastic Talks Thursday Night.

Recently inaugurated plans looking to the widening of the Luckie street "bottle neck" were given strong impetus Thursday night at a mass meeting at the Baptist tabernacle, when a large number of interested citizens and property owners voted unanimously for an appropriation sufficient to carry the project through.

Under the proposed plans, Luckie street would be widened from Bartow to Simpson to a width of 60 feet and from Simpson to Hannicutt streets a similar width, these two sections at present being only 50 feet, and from Hannicutt street to North avenue a width of 60 feet, the present width being 40 feet. In addition to the 60 feet there would be a 10-foot sidewalk on both sides of the thoroughfare.

Only One Objection.

The assemblage at the tabernacle of Luckie street property holders was virtually unanimous in favor of the plan, there being only one person present who opposed it. A score or more of letters and telegrams from property owners on the street who were unable to be present, were read by Rev. John W. Ham, pastor of the tabernacle, who was elected permanent chairman of the association which is to be known as the Luckie Street Improvement club.

Councilman Harry York, of the sixth ward, was deputed by Mayor Walter A. Sims to appear at the meeting in his stead and announce that he was heartily in accord with the plan. Councilman York also expressed his own view which coincided with the mayor's and others fostering the plan.

Impromptu speeches revealed that the project is looked upon in almost 100 per cent approval, it being the consensus of opinion that the possibilities of this street are unlimited with the one obstacle of widening the bottle neck removed. If this part of the street is widened to measure the same width as other parts, it was pointed out, Luckie street will become one of the most important avenues in the city.

Must Act Quickly.

Argument was advanced that unless this widening is completed within a short time traffic will be diverted to streets on each side and Luckie will be relegated permanently to a street of mediocre value. With the extension of Hemphill avenue from the city limits in a straight line to the Chattahoochee river practically all of the incomplete part of the work now in progress by the county will be rapidly advanced. This will probably be finished within a year, it was stated, thus opening up Luckie street from the heart of Atlanta as a magnificent new boulevard that will extend to the river with direct connection to Marietta and becoming the shortest route to Roswell.

William E. Arnold, local attorney, who holds extensive holdings on Luckie street in the section where the widening is proposed, predicted that this thoroughfare would become second in importance to Peachtree street provided the plan to widen the bottle neck is carried through. Mr. Arnold stated he was certain that property valuations would increase 100 per cent almost immediately following completion of this project.

He asserted that Luckie street Continued on Page 10, Column 7.

Criminal Prosecution of

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.

Washington, April 19.—(Special.) Criminal prosecution of the speculating ring in New York whose activities in boosting the price of sugar have been bared by the department of justice is expected by officials of the department.

They indicated they have no intention of resting on the civil suits filed Thursday.

Attorney General Daugherty, at Asheville, N. C., with all the evidence in his hands, is considering what steps can be taken to bring those responsible for the "orgy of speculation" to justice, it was learned Thursday. Filing of the civil petition asking for an injunction against the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange and the New York Coffee and Sugar Clearing association, its officers, directors and managers, was the first step in the government's program.

Almost at the same time of disclosures of sugar gambling by the department of justice, fixing the recent rise of price on speculation, the United States tariff commission, after an exhaustive study, submitted its report to the president, in which it claimed that the tariff was not responsible for the recent jump. It added, however, that the tariff of nearly 2 cents a pound on Cuban raw sugar is at the present time included in the wholesale and retail price of granulated sugar.

Sweeping in Effect.

The move against sugar gamblers is, in the opinion of officials, as sweeping in its effect against busi-

New York Prohibition Director Exchanges Repartee With Officers of Rum Fleet.

New York, April 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—A government expedition set out from New York today to discover the Isles of Rum. It returned tonight successful, with six cases officially charted off the Jersey shore, 12 miles south of Ambrose channel.

When the Associated Press received extensive months ago first reported extensive liquor smuggling off Highlands, federal prohibition officials were inclined to scoff at the presence of a sizeable liquor fleet. Today, however, Palmer Canfield, new federal director of prohibition, New York, decided to get first-hand information and took a band of newspaper men with him on the coast guard cutter Manhattan. Although he did not see a drop of liquor, he returned convinced there was plenty under the hatches of the foreign craft riding at anchor outside the three-mile limit.

Mr. Canfield critically inspected the fleet, which had shrunk from 17 vessels to 6; declined an invitation to board the flagship Ishtar, was sassed by one of her officers, and on the way home frankly denounced the rum

U. S. TAKES PART IN ADMINISTERING JOLT TO BRITAIN

Signing of Canadian Fisheries Treaty Without Consent of King Revises Relations.

BY RALPH H. TURNER.

(Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

London, April 19.—The United States has had a hand in administering a weighty jolt to that solid old rock, the British empire.

The incident of the Canadian fisheries treaty, concluded separately between the United States and Canada, without the authority of the king, has focused attention on the danger of the dominions drifting too far away from the meetings of the homeland. Press and public are concerned over the new tendency in imperial affairs and the government has let it be known that significant questions, possibly re-shaping the whole policy of empire, will be considered at the forthcoming imperial conference.

Reports received here from the dominions—from Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, as well as Canada—are now sufficiently complete to indicate that the people overseas feel the time has arrived for revision of present relations with the motherland. Not only do they desire a greater measure of independence in directing affairs which they maintain are strictly within their own province, but they also seek a wider participation in settling problems that affect the empire.

Create Independence.

It is that phase of the situation—the problem of creating independence in certain spheres of activity and making the empire more interdependent in others—that complicates the difficulty which faces the home government.

The Times, for many years a leading voice in the discussion of imperial problems, admits that the fisheries treaty has given birth to dissensions, but holds that:

"The seeds of dissension lie not in the purpose of the commonwealth, but in the ways and means of its fulfillment. The controversy is mainly about constitutional forms."

It has been made quite plain, however, that a considerable school of dominion thought believes that since Versailles the dominions have acquired a distinct separate treaty power, subject only to the consent of their own parliaments. This section of opinion holds that the dominions may advise the king to conclude treaties separately and directly, without the intervention of the home government.

LEAGUE MAY PLAY PROMINENT PART IN 1924 CAMPAIGN

Success in Lifting Austria
From Beggary Proves

Business Men.

WILSON'S FOLLOWING

Pro-League Democrats
Declare Idea No Longer
Theoretical But Now a Proven Success.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, April 19.—Efforts of Woodrow Wilson democrats to make the league of nations a vital issue in the 1924-presidential campaign are receiving a marked impetus from American business men returning from Europe. These men come back amazed at the feat of the league, which in the last six months has taken Austria out of the depths of international beggary and headed her gamely along the road to tolerancy. Their testimony supplements, from the American viewpoint, the message brought by Lord Robert Cecil who arrives here Friday to meet resident Harding and to renew his Paris acquaintance with Woodrow Wilson.

Pro-league democrats have seized upon the league's work in restoring Austria as the greatest selling argument that can be advanced in urging American membership in the league. Where they had to present the league as a theoretical idea in the 1920 campaign, they will now have a record of achievement to lay before the voters.

Prominent republicans realize that the league issue has come to life again but they are confident of success if they are forced to take the hostile side a second time. Republicans from Harding down have frankly said they hoped the league would not be made an issue, but the democrats, since observing the favorable impressions brought back from Europe by level-headed business men, some of them well-known republicans, believe they can start a reaction which will overturn the adverse verdict of 1920.

To Impress Views.

Certainly Woodrow Wilson's following will do its utmost to impress this view upon the party as a whole. Business men were surprised on returning from Europe to discover that the United States knew practically nothing of the transformation that has taken place in Austria. To them it indicated what could be done if the same methods were applied to Germany.

Last August Austria had sunk lower in the mire of debt and paper money inflation than Germany. She was an international mediant begging hand in hand for dollars from the allies. America was feeding a large section of her population. In the final stage of despair, Chancellor Seipel went to the allied premiers' meeting then in London and begged for money, saying his country was on the verge of disappearing as a national entity.

The premiers declined to extend further credits, so far gone was Austria, and they sent the chancellor to the league of nations. Statesmen interested in the league saw here an opportunity to demonstrate its powers to the world. They promised to help if Austria would put herself in their hands for a limited period.

Defer Reparations.

The league induced the allies to defer for 25 years all collection of reparations from Austria, and induced them to float a $150,000,000 loan. In return Austria placed herself in the hands of a commission of control

"The job was the work of someone who knew the exact location of the liquor car," said Sergeant Waggoner in commenting on the robbery, and added that he obtained sufficient clues upon which to base an arrest as soon as he located the party he suspected. Beaswell told the police that the bandits took his 45 automatic from a table in the office where he left it unintentionally as he went to the front door. He placed it on the table upon lying down on the couch to take a nap.

GUN BATTLE FOUGHT WITH RUM RUNNERS.

Police Thursday had been unable to obtain any clues as to the identity of the negro bootlegger, who just before 2 o'clock Thursday morning engaged in a running gun battle with Patrolmen R. T. Denny and T. J. Smith, during which he was forced to abandon his burden of 6 gallon cans of whiskey which he was carrying in a large sack upon his back.

Officers Denny and Smith narrowly escaped being hit by two of the bullets from the negro's pistol, one of which scratched Officer Denny's left ear. One of the cans which the negro was carrying was punctured during the fight and had practically leaked out when call officers arrived in response to the call for help.

Detectives late Wednesday night raided the Essex castle, a five-story brick apartment house on Ellis street in the center of the city early today. Many occupants were hurt.

Several talks were made, it finally being decided to meet again on May 1 and at that time decide whether to reorganize one of the long-defunct organizations, or to form a new club looking toward the continued growth, prosperity and success of Commerce.

Greenwood Negro Claims 'Hoodoo' Is Ruining Life

Cross-Eyed Woman Is Held Responsible for Series of Calamities.

Greenwood, S. C., April 19.—(Special.)—In the hope of escaping the curse of an evil eye cast upon him by a cross-eyed woman in Richland county two summers ago, Tom Javers, a Greenwood taxi driver, has fled to Detroit after a series of disasters which he claims are the result of a "hoodoo" of the cross-eyed woman. He has gone to the river city in the belief that he can lose his identity and the dogging "hoodoo" that made life in Greenwood just one calamity after another.

Javers claims that he encountered the cross-eyed woman who cast the spell over him while driving a party of Greenwood fishermen through Richland county during the summer of 1921. He passed her in her wagon and she cast a baleful glance at him. Since that time, one catastrophe has followed hard on another.

The ill-fated negro sent his artificial leg to Atlanta for repairs and 'it was lost in the mails; his house burned down; he had dangerous difficulties that taught him to fear the rolling pin and broom; he was arrested and jailed on court on sundry charges; his tires punctured and blew out for no cause at all; he was wrecked when other drivers drove safely on; he had passengers to hop out and dodge around a corner without paying their taxi fares. Life had become just one calamity after another when Javers packed his belongings and bought a ticket to Detroit.

He told his fellow taxi drivers that he was going where "they ain't no cross-eyed hoodoo women."

Many of the Delegates Are Described as on Verge of Hysteria.

Washington, April 19.—Police were called upon today to assist in preserving order at the Daughters of the American Revolution annual congress during balloting in connection with the triennial election of officers. A number of the nearly 2,000 delegates were described as being on the verge of hysteria. Firemen stationed at the convention hall as a precautionary measure assisted police officers in maintaining order. Excitement was intense. The withdrawal of Mrs. William Cunningham Smith, of New York, as a candidate for president-general, narrowing the race down to Mrs. C. Wallace W. Hanger, of Washington, and Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, of Pennsylvania, having resulted in bitter feeling among a number of the delegations.

A few made their way down the stairs before these were cut off by fire and smoke. Many jumped from windows and others were taken down ladders by the firemen.

There were many narrow escapes when the roof fell in.

M. B. Wellborn Reviews Business Conditions He Found in Europe

A review of economical and business conditions in countries of Europe, visited by him recently was given by M. B. Wellborn, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, at a dinner party staged in his honor by officials and employees of the institution Thursday night.

BOND ON NARCOTIC CHARGE IS INCREASED

Macon, Ga., April 19.—(Special.)—Jesse Renfro, of Atlanta, who was arrested here early in the week and who was found to have two bottles of morphine on his person, today had his bond increased from $2,500 to $5,000, following receipt of a request from narcotic authorities in Atlanta.

Renfro's arrest was the first of a number expected by the city detectives who are operating with federal narcotic agents. He is said to have the reputation of a dope peddler in Atlanta and, in view of pending cases there, his bond was increased.

GET-TOGETHER DINNER IS HELD IN COMMERCE

Commerce, Ga., April 18.—(Special.)—Citizens of Commerce gathered in the school auditorium here Tuesday night at the invitation of Mayor John B. Hardeman for a big get-together dinner.

The object of the gathering was to discuss the advisability of organizing another civic trade body here.

Several talks were made, it finally being decided to meet again on May 1 and at that time decide whether to reorganize one of the long-defunct organizations, or to form a new club looking toward the continued growth, prosperity and success of Commerce.

A Yankee soldier while in England was being shown over an old church beneath whose floor there were many graves. "A great many people sleep within these walls," said the guide solemnly, as he indicated the location of the graves. "Is that not?" replied the Yankee. "Same way over in our country. Why don't you get more interesting preacher?" — Every body's Magazine.

Government of the British government.

Does Not Agree.

The London government does not wholly agree with this view. There is every desire to accord the dominions equal status, but it is not believed here that the motherland can be divested of all responsibility for the conclusion of treaties by the overseas governments. It is pointed out that the principle of such an arrangement involves serious issues, that a trustee signed in the king's name affected the whole commonwealth, and that in case such a treaty precipitated war issues, most certainly the whole empire would be dragged in.

The controversy has endless ramifications, but it has developed sufficiently to show that old England is again at the center of the world's affairs of empire. The next few months may be numbered among the most important in British history, for old England must be reorganized and England must adapt herself to the new world of association with powerful nations thousands of miles away—nations which increasingly assume the proportions of sovereign states.

Jury Holds Liquor Did Not Cause Death Of A. N. Hollingsworth

A coroner's inquest over the body of A. N. Hollingsworth, who died Wednesday while in police station, resulted in a verdict that death was due to an acute attack of Bright's disease. It was announced Thursday evening by Coroner Paul Donehoo.

Mr. Donehoo stated that it was brought out at the inquest that the deceased had suffered from frequent attacks of this nature for many months. It was formerly announced that his death was due to alcoholic poisoning.

WOMEN RECOMMEND BILL TO LEGISLATURE

American Bar Association in Favor of Teaching Con- stitution in Schools.

Mrs. Viola Ross Napier, legislator from Bibb county and Miss Beesie Kempton, of Fulton, will introduce jointly at the approaching session of the general assembly, the bill sponsored by the American Bar association to compel the teaching of the principles of the constitution of the United States in the public schools. This announcement was made by Judge Price Gilbert, general counsel for the association, at the conclusion of his "Patriots' day" address before the City club of Atlanta Thursday.

Governor-elect Clifford M. Walker will address the club on "The Affairs of States" at its luncheon and long-table discussion at 12:30 o'clock today. Edgar Watkins, president, has extended an invitation to all business and professional men to attend, regardless of whether they are members of the club.

Radicalism and foreign doctrines of government have developed to a point in the United States, where they threaten the imperial for the continuance of our form of government, and active methods must be employed to combat them, Judge Gilbert told his hearers Thursday.

"Patriots' Day" Address.

The 14th anniversary of the battle of Lexington and Concord was the occasion of his address. He reviewed the struggle of the early patriots to set up a government, founded on law and not on rulers, and intended for the protection of the individual, rather than for the aggrandizement of monarchs or dynasties.

"The constitution of the United States, the great reward for that struggle, has been acclaimed by the keenest minds of two centuries as the most marvelous instrument ever written by man," Judge Gilbert said, "but ever since its first adoption as the fundamental law of the land, it has been the object of attack by individuals and factions that feel it to be a restraint on their ambitions."

"The 30 years of the service of John Marshall as first chief justice of the United States supreme court was a continual battle to maintain the supremacy of the constitution over radical tendencies and unscrupulous policies that found expression in the early congresses."

"That struggle has been continued up to the present day, and now the American Bar association has found radicalism so active in many sections of the country that it considers the very safety of our form of government to depend on a better understanding and appreciation of the constitution."

Influence of Schools.

"The schools are the surest influence on the people of our country, and even in the schools in some parts of the country radical teachings have found their way. In order to meet these evil influences, the bar association has prepared, and will have introduced in the legislatures of all the states, bills to compel the teaching of the principles of the constitution to schools."

"Because women are primarily interested in the schools, and other things affecting child life, we thought it would be particularly appropriate to have the bill proposed in Georgia by the state's first women members of the general assembly, Mrs. Napier and Miss Kempton."

"It is not the intention of the bar association to seek any undesired credit for originating the movement to compel teaching of the constitution in the schools, and we stand ready to join with the other organizations interested in the movement to help pass their bills, or to welcome their help in passing ours, as developments may indicate which is best in the interests of getting such a law on the statute books."

PARTING RECEPTION FOR DR. STUCHELL

Dr. and Mrs. William Torrence Stuchell, the former pastor of Central Congregational church, will be honored a farewell reception at 7:45 o'clock tonight at the church. Dr. Stuchell has accepted a call to a New Jersey Presbyterian church, and leaves on May 1 to assume his new duties.

All members of the congregation, the Christian Endeavor society and friends of the church, have been cordially invited to attend and pay a final honor to the well-known local divine.

CANDLER IS ELECTED TO ARMY ASSOCIATION

Asa G. Candler has been unanimously elected to honorary membership in the Association of the Army of the United States, according to announcement Thursday.

The election occurred at the April meeting of the association. Major T. H. Middleton, instructor in the Camp Benning infantry school, was the principal speaker. Lieutenant Colonel F. B. Williamson, of Forsyth, Ga., was another speaker. He said that 900 officers will be trained in the fourth corps area during the coming summer.

R. O. T. C. UNITS OF HIGH SCHOOLS STAGE BIG REVIEW

Before approximately 2,500 spectators, the R. O. T. C. units of the Boys' High, Tech High and Fulton High schools held their annual review on Grant field Thursday morning, marking the inauguration of the new W. Hardin as president of the Tech High student body.

Colonel R. H. Williams, of the fourth corps area, acted as chief reviewing officer in the absence of General Shanks, who could not be present on account of illness. Other reviewing officers were:

Colonel James L. Little, Willis A. Sutton, Captain Peter F. Clark, representing the Old Guard; Major W. E. Dove, J. P. Hanson and Andrew Jones of the Fitzhugh Lee camp of Spanish War veterans; and Cadet Colonel J. L. Spencer and staff.

In his inaugural address President Hardin pledged himself to uphold the lofty ideals and fine traditions of the school. The oath of office was administered by Judge O. H. B. Bloodworth, of the court of appeals.

Following the review competitive drills between companies of Tech High were held. Captain C. H. Ward's company "G" winning first prize—a medal presented by Superintendent Sutton.

In competitive drills between picked companies of the schools, Tech High won first place, Fulton, High, second, and Boys' High, third.

Judges for both contests were Captain W. A. Howland, and Lieutenants R. R. Courser and T. W. Webb. A tent pitching and bayonet drill exhibition was given by Boys' High company "A" and students of Tech High formed in lines spelling out the name of their school. Sponsors of each company occupied the reviewer's stand.

Sylvester Lester, Veteran Printer, Called by Death

Sylvester Lester, known to Atlanta printers in years gone by as "Syl," died at his home, 300 Whitehall street, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. He was 74 years of age. While he retired from business about three years ago, on account of failing health, he was only confined to his bed for three weeks prior to his death.

Mr. Lester worked for The Constitution about 20 years ago. He later ran a shop on Broad street, near Alabama, where he did job printing. Always interested in printing and the men engaged in the trade, one of his last requests was that an invitation be extended to all members of the local typographical union to attend the funeral.

Services, conducted by Rev. C. W. Daniel, of First Baptist church, will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday in the chapel of Barclay and Brandon, undertakers. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

Mr. Lester is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sarah Virginia Lester; one son, Fred F. Lester, and a daughter, Mrs. Paul Dixon, all of Atlanta. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Mary Dickson, of Atlanta.

Governor Hardwick Will Soon Decide Baker Boys' Fate

The fate of Ralph and George Baker, convicted in Walker county youths, sentenced to die on the gallows April 27 for murder of J. W. Morton, deputy sheriff of that county, will be decided within the next few days by Governor Hardwick, at his former home in Sandersville, where he is spending a few days.

A respite was granted by Governor Hardwick recently in order to allow him additional time in which to study the case. The state executive department has been virtually swamped with petitions from all sections of the country, signed by persons who believe that clemency should be given the two boys.

Austria's problem is far from solved, however, because much of her territory was chipped away at the Paris peace conference. This places political and tariff barriers between the capital, Vienna, and its former trade territory. But these barriers are being set aside by agreements and trade is being revived. The league's economy measures throw many government employees and clericals into idleness temporarily but with the industries and the mines becoming busier, this unemployment is being absorbed.

$2,200,000 This Year to Meet Georgia's Telephone Needs

THE telephone expansion in Georgia, to meet the estimated needs of the State this year and for the four following years, is well under way.

During the year 1923 we expect to spend $2,263,000 for additions and extensions to plant. The work has been engineered, most of the material has been ordered and unless something entirely unforeseen happens the unfilled demand for telephone service in Georgia will be fully met.

The program for the next five years, including the year 1923, calls for the expenditure of $12,724,000.

It is a matter of interest not only to business men, but to every citizen of the State that practically every dollar of this enormous sum is new money, loaned or invested by people who have confidence in the safety of investments in public utilities in Georgia.

This will increase the investment in telephone plant to more than $32,000,000, a 65 per cent increase.

It will increase the number of Bell telephones in Georgia to 134,200, an increase of more than 38 per cent.

The telephone workers of Georgia broke all previous records both in service and in construction last year.

A bigger task faces them this year and during the years following, and their success depends in a large measure upon your continued encouragement and cooperation.

APPEALS ARE MADE FOR SALVATION ARMY

Little More Than Half of Required Sum Has Been Raised Up to Date.

A complete check of all returns to date in the $40,000 Salvation Army drive, which has just been finished by W. T. Perkins, vice president of the Fourth National bank, and treasurer of the campaign, indicates that the total cash and pledges now in hand amount to the sum of $21,150.08. Of this amount only $11,475 is in cash, the balance being in pledges that are subject to more or less shrinkage before collection is fully effected.

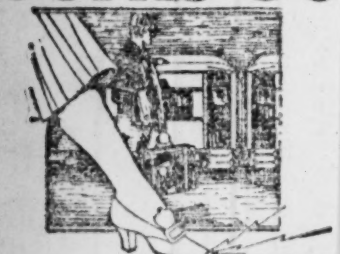

The fact that the end of the campaign is drawing near, and that but little more than half of the amount set as a goal for the drive has been pledged is causing deep concern to the leaders, who frankly declare that the funds of the Salvation Army have been practically depleted as a result of the increased burdens of the past year.

In speaking of the situation Thursday, W. T. Perkins, treasurer of the movement, and a citizen who thoroughly appreciates the value of an institution of the character of the Salvation Army, pointed out the fact that because of the failure of the recent drive to raise its quota in this city, many additional burdens have been cast upon the Salvation Army, which has been forced to afford relief for many more cases of poverty and called upon to assume responsibility for an additional number of unfortunate.

A request has been made by the leaders of the campaign that all companies having lists in hand allow their employees the opportunity of making subscriptions as quickly as possible and that the amount raised be returned to Preston S. Arkwright chairman of the advisory board, without delay.

Reports coming in Thursday to headquarters at the chamber of commerce show the following new donations: Masonic team, under Paul T. Coleman, $100 additional; War Mothers, through Mrs. Sam D. Jones, president, raised the total of the organization from an even $10,000 to $10,070.00; Dr. P. L. Moon, of the Fulton County Medical board, reported donations from that body of $40, and it is understood that $25 of this amount was the personal donation of Dr. Moon.

A MAN OF INTEGRITY

A physician who reaches out to benefit humanity leaves a record behind him that is worth while. Such a man was Dr. R. V. Pierce, founder of the Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y. He was an eminent physician, a leading and honored citizen, known for his honesty and executive ability. His study along medical lines, and his knowledge of the remedial qualities of herbs and plants led to the discovery of his wonderful herbal remedy, Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the woman's tonic which has had the greatest number of supporters for the past fifty years. It is just the herbal tonic required if a woman is borne down by pain and sufferings at regular or irregular intervals, by nervousness or dizzy spells, headache or backache. Favorite Prescription can now be had in tablet form as well as liquid at most drug stores.

Send for trial sample to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, New York.—(adv.)

MISSILE SHATTERS WINDSHIELD OF LOGAN BLECKLEY

Detectives Thursday were investigating the near injury of Logan Bleckley, clerk to the court of appeals, and his daughter, Miss Katherine Bleckley, Wednesday afternoon when the windshield of their automobile was shattered by a missile as they were driving off in their car from the state capitol.

So far as had been learned late Thursday afternoon, it has not been decided definitely whether the windshield was broken by a bullet or a rock from a slingshot. Police had been unable to find anyone who heard the report of a gun, it is said.

SIMS WILL ASSIST NEW BRIDGE PLAN AT M'DONOUGH AVE.

A delegation of third ward citizens headed by Alderman W. B. Hartfield and Councilman Fred C. Woodall and J. J. Greer, appeared before Mayor Sims Thursday morning and urged his co-operation in a movement to secure erection of a new bridge over the railway tracks on McDonough avenue. Assurance was given the delegation by Mayor Sims that he would aid in having council take favorable action on the project. Such a structure would cost approximately $75,000, it was estimated. A large number of railway officials, county commissioners and other interested parties have been called in the mayor's office for a meeting Friday afternoon to discuss the matter.

COUNTY WILL BE ASKED TO GRADE HIGH SCHOOL SITE

Fulton county will be asked by the city board of education, delegation of south side citizens and representatives of the Parent-Teacher association to undertake the grading of the senior girls' high school at Grant park when the board of county commissioners meet on April 25, it became known Thursday.

Meantime, according to W. L. McCally, chairman of the finance and building committee of the board of education, plans for the building will proceed rapidly.

LUNCHEON TO OPEN DRIVE FOR FUNDS TO HELP COLLEGE

President Bruce R. Payne, of Peabody College for Women, Nashville, Tenn., a distinguished guest at the Georgia Teachers' association convention, will act as toastmaster at the luncheon to be given in the Daffodil room at noon today, by Peabody alumnae in Georgia, presenting the greater Peabody campaign for $1,000,000.

The object of this campaign is to raise money to build a new woman's dormitory. Peabody college is entirely dependent on her alumnae for the success of this drive, it is pointed out, due to the fact that she has no claim on either state or church. Other distinguished members of the Peabody faculty who will be present include Professor J. O. Martin, Dr. Charles E. Little and Dr. H. L. Hargrave. Miss M. Virginia Garner, head of the departments of journalism at Wesleyan and Mercer universities, who will have charge of the summer work in journalism at Peabody, will also attend the Atlanta meeting.

RESERVE ARMY CORPS OFFICERS PROMOTED

Seven recent promotions among reserve corps officers in the fourth army corps were announced Thursday by Colonel William R. Dashiell, chief of staff. The promotions were as follows:

Signal corps, St. George F. Rathborne from major to lieutenant colonel and Olaf J. Tolins from second lieutenant to first lieutenant.

Adjutant general's department, Albert E. Barrs, from captain to major.

Dental corps, Ira G. Callender from first lieutenant to captain.

Air service, Elbert E. Wilson from first lieutenant to captain.

Field artillery, William D. Paschall from second lieutenant to first lieutenant and Louis A. Gattman from second lieutenant to first lieutenant.

Quartermaster corps, Catesby R. Jones from second lieutenant to first lieutenant.

ELECTION ON TUESDAY

Fourth Ward Improvement Club Will Meet.

Annual election of officers of the Fourth Ward Improvement club, will be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday night in the Forrest Avenue school. All members are urged to attend this, the first meeting of the year, when in addition to the election, the spring program will be discussed.

Man Saved From River; Investigation Is Ordered Of His Mental Condition

Bob Taylor, 64, of Bolton, is being held in Fulton county jail pending inquiry into his mental condition, following his rescue Thursday from the Chattahoochee river into which he had jumped, in an alleged attempt to end his own life.

Taylor was rescued by a crew of workmen of the Georgia Railway and Power company, after Joe Pratt, one of the crew, saw him plunge into the water.

"He had been telling employees all the morning he was going to kill himself," Pratt is said to have told county police.

Memorial Services Today Will Feature Travelers' Meeting

Reports of committees and general discussions of business took up the greater part of the afternoon session of the state convention of Travelers' Protective association, that met Thursday morning, in the roof garden of the Ansley hotel.

The convention will close this afternoon with a farewell barbecue at Lakewood park, Thursday evening. The delegates were entertained by the local post with a party at the Howard theater.

The Friday morning session will be opened with memorial services in honor of those travelers who died during 1922. State Chaplain John S. Wilder will conduct services. Following memorial services, the final business session will be held, with election of officers. The convention will adjourn at 12:30 o'clock.

Thursday morning's session opened with President Barney Ehrlich, of local post "B" presiding. Following the invocation by post chaplain, Dr. S. R. Bell, addresses of welcome were made by R. A. Broyles and Mayor Sims. Reply came from S. N. Harris, Mr. Ehrlich then delivered the gavel to State President F. E. Kibler, who will preside through the convention.

Dr. Thomas W. Davis, national chaplain, was one of the principal speakers Thursday. He declared that a spirit of isolation existed in the United States, endangering the welfare of the country. The visitors are to be entertained Friday by an inspection trip of Block's candy factory.

MISS V. GARNER, MACON TEACHER, GIVEN WELCOME

When the teaching of journalism became established in American colleges, it was found that time set aside for its study was only a fraction of that required for an understanding of the course.

Miss Virginia Garner, of the department of journalism in Wesleyan college and Mercer university, Macon, Ga., devised a method whereby the theoretical and practical might be administered at the same time, in order that graduates might not be entirely at a loss, when they entered the newspaper business.

Miss Garner, a visitor in Atlanta during education week, has been given an unusual welcome by teachers from all parts of the state. Her work has been commended by such members of the profession as Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times; Tiffany Blake, chief editorial writer on the Chicago Tribune, and others of wide practical experience.

State Normal School Alumnae Will Meet Today in Capitol

Alumnae of the State Normal school attending the educational conference and others in the city are requested to assemble this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the lobby of the Washington street entrance of the capitol for a special meeting called by Mrs. Susan Winberly Everett, chairman of the alumni association.

Mrs. Everett states that there are several matters of importance to be discussed relative to the welfare of the organization, although the real object of the meeting is to hold a "get-together" session.

Ban on Horseracing And Baseball Tickets Gets Mayor's Approval

Mayor Walter A. Sims Thursday signed the ordinance adopted by council at its last session placing a ban on tickets in commercial establishments used in recording results of horse racing and baseball games.

Officials of the Georgia Billiard association favored adoption of the ordinance on the grounds that such instruments encouraged gambling and they were endeavoring to keep pool rooms on a high plane.

WHIRLWIND FINISH PREDICTED IN REVIVAL

Protestants Believe 2,000 Will Be Added During Final Week.

Atlanta churches, which are in the middle of the last week of a great three weeks' revival, after reporting 2,000 additions as the official count for members admitted up to last Monday, are confident that as many more will join before the curtain is drawn on the campaign. Reports are based on returns of the Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians and Christian churches.

The following Methodist churches report increased enthusiasm during the present week: Payne Memorial, Stewart Avenue, Underwood, Center Street, St. Luke and Haneyville. One Methodist church announces a new revival to begin Sunday, April 29, to run into the month of May. It is the Mary Brannan Memorial, Whitehall street and Whitehall terrace, Rev. J. S. Strickland, pastor. Preaching will be done by Rev. W. J. DeBardelaben, while singing will be led by the MacKie sisters, of Cumberland, W. Va. An interesting feature of the revival will be a homecoming service to which all former pastors will be invited.

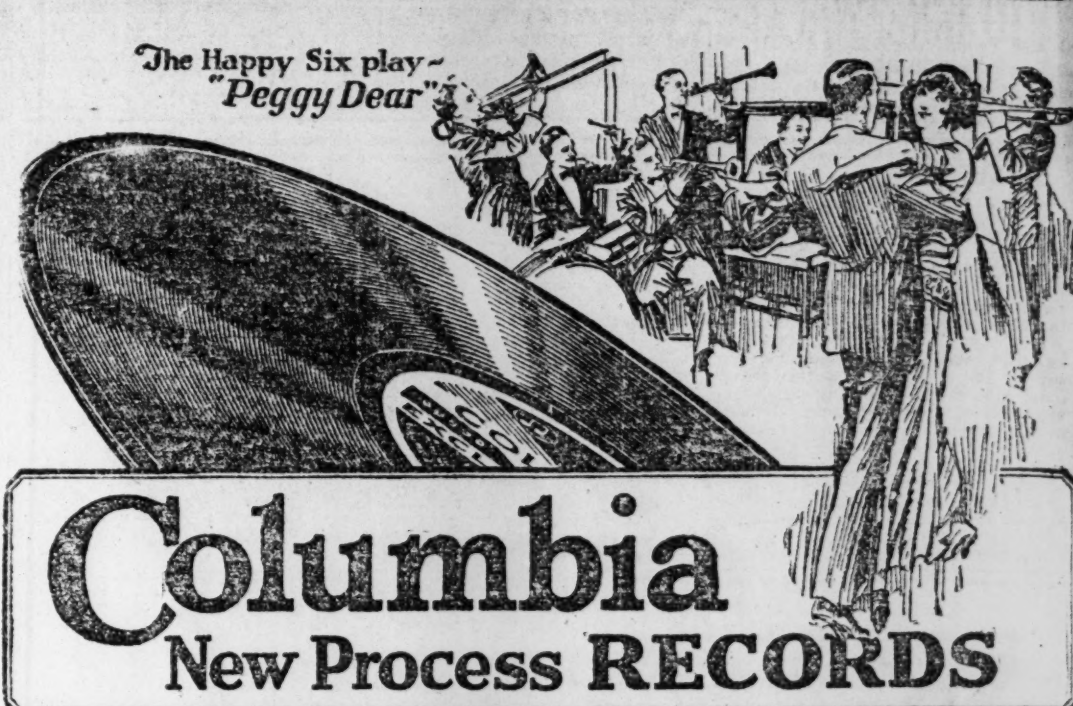

More than 50 additions to date are reported by Rev. Henry Alford Porter, of the Second Baptist church, where he is conducting a series of sermons on "Days of Decision." Friday night he will speak on "Making the Best Possible Bargain." Students' night will be observed at the Gordon Street Baptist church Friday night and a special service will be rendered for the benefit of young women of the Philanthia class.

SACKETT IS BETTER 'Silhouette Man' Rallies After Cerebral Hemorrhage.

Henry A. Sackett, the "silhouette man," whose condition was reported Wednesday to be very serious, following a cerebral hemorrhage, rallied somewhat Thursday and was resting easier late in the evening. Friends, who came to his material relief, contributed a little over $30 to his depleted purse, which he said would carry him through the emergency. Meantime his little son, "Buddie," was provided with clothes. He enjoyed Thursday shopping in the downtown district, with part of his wages, at least, relegated to the back ground.

Mr. Sackett expressed his heartfelt thanks for the help rendered. "It is so good to know that I have friends in Atlanta," he said. Salvation Army workers took charge of the case Wednesday night.

HONOR IS PAID TO MRS. WALKER

Wife of Governor-Elect
Made Honorary President of State P.-T. A. for Next Two Years.

The tenth annual congress of the state Parent-Teachers' association came to a close Thursday afternoon in the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's club after an interesting two-days session. A distinctive feature of the afternoon was the unanimous election of Mrs. Clifford Walker, wife of Governor-Elect Walker, to the office of honorary president of the state P.-T. A. for the next two years. Mrs. Walker is an active member of the state P.-T. A. organization and has been untiring in her efforts to further the purposes and ideals of the association.

A closing session was the motion made by Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton, Ga., who is vice president of the seventh district. The motion was as follows: "That the tenth annual congress of the Parent-Teachers' association stand for law and stand squarely behind the lawmakers of Georgia." The motion was unanimously carried.

Mrs. Walker Speaks.
A brilliant feature of the afternoon was the address of Mrs. Clifford Walker, state chairman of the pre-school circles.

"As a Parent-Teacher association," said Mrs. Walker, "we have stressed the power of the schools, but the pre-school circle is formed for the express purpose of a full recognition of the power and responsibility of the home and its part in the preparation for school life, the life in the world and the life beyond."

"It places the emphasis squarely upon the home and upon the father and the mother exactly where it belongs. The burden of blame for faulty habits in children has too long been put upon the school and the school has been looked to as a place of correction for habits which should never have been allowed to form before the child came to school age. There are unlimited possibilities for the grades where the children are not handicapped by the defects in health or in general habits, but are ready to absorb and accept all that the efficient teacher may present to their normal minds.

"Our school system is by no means perfect and our teachers are but human, yet we would see a vast improvement over the children now turned out by them if the homes would do their part in intelligent preparation of the material sent to the schools.

"Approaching the situation at close range then, why not submit ourselves and the schools to an interrogatory as befits so important a subject as the child certainly to be sent one day from the home environment to that of the school.

"Why am I sending my child to school? To what kind of school am I sending my child? What kind of child am I sending into the school? Is he normal in health? What is my part in the preparation of both school and child for the relationship to each other?"

Pre-School Circle.
"The pre-school circle is the one organization prepared to help us answer these questions. For years we have had a select few or groups who studied child training, and it is to be hoped that these will be greatly increased in number, but we must hold ourselves steadfastly to the fact, the inescapable fact, that no battle was ever won by the advance of a few while the great army lagged in the rear. We must bring up the ranks.

"It is greatly to be desired that the P.-T. A. and the pre-school circles swing back and ally themselves more closely with the Bible, the idea of law. We are having too many man-made variations of it, and in the numerous varieties of these variations, the theme itself is in danger of being wholly submerged. We should mind about our children's hearts the golden rule, or law of gold, and engrave upon their minds the plain, code of the Ten Commandments as carefully as we place about their bodies the raiment of the day and night.

"The Biblical idea of law is that of a lamp or guide. The popular idea of law today is that of only an earthly Nemesis from which there is a chance of escape, and this very gambling risk seems to add zest to the game.

"God speed the day when the courts of men will cease to accept the blood money fine of the whiskey vender—he be a dealer in pints or in gallons, of the state that sends so many victims to an early grave, our sons to the gallows and our daughters to shame! Every nerve of my womanhood shudders at the very thought of capital punishment, but the quickest way to lessen it or abolish it is to teach respect for law, and a proper interpretation of it; in other words, to prevent the crime by early teaching in the homes.

"This is the logical time for the P.-T. A. to do a really constructive work by throwing our support solidly and heavily to the agencies of the state who are trying to stem the tide of crime in Georgia through the operation of the juvenile courts, the establishment of juvenile courts and the state school of reform, all of which are begging and pleading for funds. They are building the fences, but by selecting sporadic cases here and there for our effort we will only maintain the ambulance, if we hope to abolish capital punishment permanently, we must do four things: We must give cleaner recreation to our young people, teach respect for law in the homes and in the schools, support our welfare agencies and establishments of juvenile courts and encourage justice in the courts.

"Suffrage for women will succeed only in so far as it can bring about conditions that will protect the motherhood of the nation.

"When maternity is given the attention it should have and the protection, there will be fewer advocates of birth-restriction, and less to fear for our nation from that source. Certainly the quality of mankind will have been bettered and the death rate will be much lower, helping us to strike an even balance in the matter of citizenship."

Mercer Glee Club Gives Concert Saturday

Clever Mercer boys who have been scoring hit in many Georgia cities. They give their first concert here Saturday night.

The Mercer University Glee club will give its annual Atlanta concert at the Woman's club Saturday evening of this week at 8 o'clock.

The club has given concerts at Wesleyan college, Bessie Tift college, Americus, Dawson, Montezuma and other Georgia cities. The concert at Wesleyan college on Monday evening of this week was the most brilliant concert the club has ever held in Macon and drew warm commendation from the press of that city.

E. Powell Lee is director of the club. Mr. Lee is a well trained musician, having been in the work of voice culture since his graduation at Mercer ten years ago. He is an Atlanta man and his return to the city with a club which he has trained will be of particular interest to his many friends here.

A feature of the program is a minstrel number put on by R. L. Hurst, who was for a time with Al G. Fields. Mr. Hurst has a ridiculously funny skit which brings the house down.

The Mandolin club accompanies the singers and backs the program with snappy numbers as well as classical selections. Daniel Merritt directs the Mandolin club. Dan Davis directs the orchestra.

"Purring" Motors Come From Pouring Polarine In Your Crank Case

Automobile construction has reached such a high point of efficiency that nearly any car you buy will give you good service if you take the right care of it.

Proper lubrication is, of course, the most essential thing to motor satisfaction—and remember always that the motor is the heart of the car. If the pistons and cylinder walls are lubricated with the right quality and the right weight of oil, you will have no bother or expense with either of the two great causes of trouble—friction and lost power.

Polarine is a motor oil made from the very heart of choicest crude petroleum, refined, filtered and purified so as to produce just the right "oiliness" for every motor. Made in four weights, "Medium"—"Heavy"—"Heavy X"—and "Heavy XX." By following the chart of recommendations (which is on display at all Polarine dealers), you can be absolutely assured of getting the proper weight for your motor.

Labor Federation Demands Paying
Of A.B.&A. Tax

Convention Unanimously In-dorses Savannah as Site for State Port.

Savannah, Ga., April 19.—(Special.)—In strong resolutions adopted at the afternoon session the Georgia Federation of Labor called upon the governor and other state authorities and the legally appointed receiver of the A. B. and A. railroad to take such steps at once as shall result in the payment to the state, the counties along the line of that road and the municipalities through which the road runs taxes now alleged to be long overdue and unpaid.

The resolution declares that such action is taken because the state needs money, as evidenced by the recent hypothesis of the receipt from the state's own railroad and the failure to find funds for school purposes, and because, it is declared, it has been discovered that the A. B. and A. has not paid its taxes as other concerns, private individuals and corporations, even in receivership are required to do. The resolution contends that the road should be made to get the money by borrowing, if necessary, and pay its taxes.

A resolution endorsing the general plan of "Georgia Incorporated" was warmly discussed. A motion to table it was lost. Finally it was directed to the incoming executive board for investigation and endorsement for the federation if the committee shall find it compatible with the sentiment of organized labor in Georgia.

Favor Savannah Port.
The federation went unanimously on record in favor of Savannah as the site for the state port and terminals for Georgia, there being no discussion of the matter.

The federation expressed its regret that Governor-elect Clifford Walker could not be present for an address. A letter to President Valentino received today stated that on account of the illness of Mrs. Walker the governor-elect will not be able to attend the convention.

It is likely that as a result of the expressions heard at the meeting here a history of the labor movement in Georgia as indicated by the story of the development of the federation of Labor will be prepared in the next year. Secretary-Treasurer Louis P. Marquardt, in his excellent report indicated that any requests have come to him for such a history and the task will be undertaken.

Addresses by J. R. Cowart, Savannah, vice president of the federation; Charles A. Dixon, Newark, N. J., representative of the International Organization of Plumbers and Steamfitters; G. W. Marshall, international representative of the machinists; Jerome Jones, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor; and H. H. Harris, Savannah, one of the charter members of the state organization, were features of the meeting.

This afternoon the entire body was taken over the city and county on an automobile ride and this evening a barbecue was served at the Country club.

Harris Makes Address.
A feature of the session this morning was an address by Mr. Harris of Savannah, one of the original members of the state federation. Mr. Harris has devoted his life to the cause of labor and his experiences were listened to with interest. He told of some of the early activities of labor unions in Georgia.

Reports were made by E. L. Quinn, C. W. Kenny, of the Atlanta Carpenters' Union No. 225; B. E. Cook and employees; J. A. Eubank, Atlanta steam and operative engineers; C. S. Keessling, Atlanta barbers; W. A. McKenna, Macon Federation of Trades; J. R. Melfon, Macon barbers and E. E. Erby, Macon plumbers. The report from Macon included an account of the co-operation of the labor federation with the Boy Scouts of America. The work of that city is in a very flourishing condition.

The regular business sessions will be held tomorrow and in the afternoon on board the U. S. R. cutter, "Yamacraw," the convention will be taken for a long tour of the river and harbor.

Officers of Reserve Bank Honor Wellborn At Informal Dinner

An informal dinner was tendered Governor M. B. Wellborn, of the local federal reserve bank, Thursday evening by the officers of the institution, the occasion being the return of Governor Wellborn after a two-months' absence in Europe, where he took a cruise of the Mediterranean countries upon the S. S. Mauretania. Besides the officers, there were present J. A. McCrary, J. A. McCord, J. K. Ottley, and Lindsay Hopkins, all directors of the local reserve bank. J. M. Slattery, secretary, acted as toastmaster, and Hollins N. Randolph, general counsel delivered a short address of welcome.

After the dinner, Governor Wellborn addressed the federal reserve bank club, in a very interesting talk on his travels and experiences while abroad.

C. E. CONVENTION CONVENES IN MACON

Several Hundred State Endeavorers Begin Three-Day Session.

Macon, Ga., April 19.—(Special.)—The eleventh annual convention of the Georgia Christian Endeavor union will open in Macon tomorrow morning at the First Presbyterian church, with approximately 900 delegates from all parts of the state in attendance. A special train from Atlanta, which will reach Macon at 10:30 tomorrow morning, will bring several hundred of the visitors. Atlanta, Savannah, Augusta, Columbus and Rome are expected to send the largest delegations.

Among the prominent speakers appearing on the program will be E. P. Gates, of Boston, Mass., general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor; C. J. Matthews, field secretary for Georgia; Miss Mamie Gene Cole, junior field secretary for the all-south extension committee; C. E. Evans, southern secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor; S. W. Deuby, former field secretary for Georgia, and C. C. Coules, secretary of the American Missions to Lepers.

Saturday at noon the convention delegates will take part in a parade through the business section of the city, headed by the Lanier High school band. A banquet will be given at Mercer university Saturday night.

ADOPT INSPECTION LAW

Meat and Milk in Americas Affected by Action.

Americus, Ga., April 19.—(Special.)—City council in regular session last night formally adopted the Georgia state uniform meat and milk inspection law. In addition to providing for enforcement of proper inspection of these products under municipal supervision.

Dr. S. F. Stapleton, Americus veterinarian, was elected city inspector at a salary of $75 a month, and fees placed upon inspection service will bring in revenue sufficient to defray the expense of the entire department.

No municipal slaughter house is provided for in the ordinance as passed, though precautions are placed upon the manner in which meat may be slaughtered, and city authorities have power under the ordinance to condemn any carcass slaughtered except under approved conditions.

HARRIS TEACHERS HERE

Attend Meeting of Georgia Educational Association.

Hamilton, Ga., April 19.—(Special.)—Harris county is represented at the Georgia Educational association, in convention in Atlanta, by County Superintendent W. B. Wisdom and ten teachers.

Those in attendance besides Superintendent Wisdom are Professor Charles E. Lawrence, Mrs. R. L. Mobley, Mrs. L. L. Parker, Mrs. Pope Paris and Misses Marion Tigner, Lucille Hudson, Bessie Jenkins, from Chiple, and Professor J. B. Munn, Miss Georgia Holt and Miss Louie Graham.

INSTRUCT STUDENTS IN MOSQUITO BATTLE

Americus, Ga., April 19.—(Special.)—Students at the third district agricultural college received practical instructions in mosquito elimination today when a class of boys and girls met with Dr. J. A. Leprince, federal drainage engineer, witnessing a number of demonstrations in malarial control work.

The boys and girls in the classes went with Dr. Leprince into the bog half a mile back of the school dormitories, where they witnessed practical applications of mosquito elimination measures. In the breeding places of these pests, and evidenced much interest in the process. Certain drainage measures recommended by Dr. Leprince will be effected at once, boys in the senior and junior classes at the Aggie volunteering to do this work themselves in order to free the college campus of all possible sources of malarial infection.

TRACK DOGS LOSE TRAIL OF NEGRO MAN

Americus, Ga., April 19.—(Special.)—Track dogs belonging to Sumter county failed to locate an unknown negro who peered into the room of Miss Rachel Scroggs in the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Chambliss before daylight Wednesday morning. The trail was followed to a negro house in Coker street, two blocks distant, and there lost.

Miss Scroggs, who sleeps in a room some distance from that of Dr. and Mrs. Chambliss, awoke in time to see the negro's head entering her window. She screamed lustily, and Dr. Chambliss, who is her brother-in-law, quickly summoned police officers. It is believed that burglary was the negro's purpose.

SEVEN JOIN MARINES April Is Good Month, Says Captain.

Seven husky young men felt the call of spring this week and signed up with Uncle Sam to serve in the marine corps for a period of four years. They were transferred to Paris Island, S. C., Thursday by Captain Bower, of the local recruiting station. "April has always been a good month for enlistments," says the captain. "The quota for the month is 42. I believe that when a final check is made it will be found that we have made the grade."

Pardon Is Asked For Lee H. Cross, Convicted of Murder

Counsel for Lee H. Cross, of Macon, now serving a life term in the state prison for murder of his former business partner, Frank J. Hodges, Thursday filed an application for parole or pardon for their client before the Georgia prison commission.

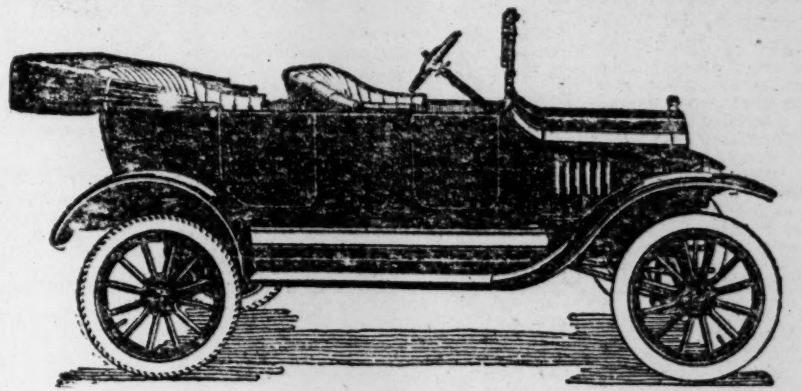

The plea is based on the claim that Cross shot Hodges while the two were engaged in a fight, the former claiming he acted in self-defense. M. D. Hodges, brother of the slain man, opposed granting of the application. The commission will announce its decision later.

L. F. M. TO DOUBLE ITS FLOOR SPACE

Expansion Program Is Announced by Fitzpatrick on Eve of Opening Anniversary Sale.

Plans to double the floor space of the L. F. M. store by October 1 were announced Thursday by Ben Fitzpatrick, member of the firm, in charge of the local store, in connection with the close of the first year of business. The first anniversary sale will begin today with a $500,000 stock of new goods on the shelves.

A three-story annex, opening on Broad street, with approximately 12,000 square feet of floor space, will be built in time for opening in October and the third floor of the Whitehall street building, practically gutted in the big fire last September, will be rebuilt for opening about the same time, making a total floor space of more than 30,000 square feet. At present the store is occupying two floors opening on Whitehall street and workmen are rapidly remodeling the basement, formerly a stock room, which will be opened during the summer as a sales room.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, in reviewing the first year of the Atlanta store's existence, declared that he considered its growth little short of marvelous in consideration of the heavy blow dealt by the September fire.

"Our average daily business this spring is approximately 50 per cent bigger than it was last spring, despite the fact that we have only two-thirds as much floor space," he said. "The business is growing so rapidly that early additions of floor space are absolutely necessary and we are rushing the work on the basement and the third floor to completion at the earliest possible date."

Work on two new passenger elevators was completed Thursday and they will be in operation to accommodate the crowds of shoppers who are expected to attend the anniversary sale that opens at 9 o'clock this morning. The remodeling will be suspended during the nine days of the sale but will be resumed immediately on its close.

Students Will Visit U. S. Penitentiary Duck Mill Today

Warden Dysche, of the Federal penitentiary, will have as his temporary guests Friday 50 students of the Tech School of Commerce. They are members of Professor Thomas W. Mrs. Morgan is prominently identified with many civic enterprises, having been secretary of the Atlanta hospital association, which cared for wounded men during the civil war; former regent of the local chapter of the D. A. R., and vice president and one of the founders of the Ladies Memorial association.

Reserve System Can Aid Schools, Claims Amorous

Strong endorsement of a new system of financing state and county public schools as advocated by Dr. M. M. Parks, state superintendent of schools, in an address before the Georgia Educational association in session here, and suggestion of a plan calculated to effect a saving of from 15 to 20 per cent on discounts of county school warrants, was made Thursday by Martin Amorous, widely known Marietta farmer, in a statement to The Constitution.

Briefly summarized Dr. Parks' proposed plan is divided into four principal features, as follows: (1) To abandon present plan of long delayed payment of public school money by adopting a monthly installment plan. (2) To abolish the school warrant system, now in vogue, which causes a loss to the school fund of approximately $150,000 yearly in discount and interest. (3) To bring about greater efficiency in schools by electing teachers to longer terms. (4) To receive not less than one-half of the state's total revenues for public school purposes.

It lies within the power of federal reserve banks of the country to purchase school warrants in advance of tax collections at this institution's prevailing rate of interest, according to Mr. Amorous. This practice was formerly adhered to by federal reserve banks, but was suspended during the war, it was stated.

$150,000 Lost to Teachers.

"Professor Parks in his address to the educators of Georgia," declared Mr. Amorous, "stressed the loss to teachers of $150,000 a year in discount and interest charges on the state and county warrants. If the federal reserve banks would only advance all the good things they can and will do for the people it would become the most popular institution in this country."

"The federal reserve banks are empowered to buy warrants issued by state, county or city in advance of tax collections or other assured income at as low rate as the board fixes. I assume 4 per cent today, and this saves not only the teachers but every other employee or seller of goods to all counties. In most counties these warrants are costing the taxpayers from 15 to 20 per cent and all this can be saved through the services of the federal reserve banks."

M. B. Wellborn, governor of the federal reserve bank of Atlanta, in commenting on Mr. Amorous' plan, declared the regulations of that institution prohibited it from purchasing school warrants on the open market, as has been the practice up until the world war, but that such warrants, if endorsed by a member bank could be purchased by the federal reserve banks.

Reserve Bank Rules.

"The federal reserve bank is authorized to purchase warrants of a state, county or city which have a maturity from date of purchase not exceeding six months, and which have been issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes. The exercise of this function is, however, subject to regulations laid down by the federal reserve board. In the early days of reserve banking, and up to the time of the great war, federal reserve banks purchased these warrants in the open market; but such practices were discontinued when the demands on the regional institutions for rediscounts to take care of the agricultural and business interests became so heavy."

"We have not seen fit to resume the practice of purchasing state, county or city warrants in the open market, but we purchase from time to time upon the endorsement of a member bank such warrants from that institution which come within the scope of our regulations."

Around The World Every 12 $\frac{1}{3}$ Days by Atlanta Yellow Cabs

IN compiling our record of service for the year 1922 we believe that a few facts, figures and comparisons will be interesting to the people of this city to whom we have endeavored to give the highest grade of cab service to be obtained, and at the "Lowest Cab Rate in the South."

Ours is essentially a business of Public Service where Safety, Efficiency, Reliability and Courtesy are paramount—and we feel that it was through the combined whole-hearted and sincere co-operation of every department, of every individual of the Yellow Cab Company, and the appreciation of our many friends and patrons of real cab service that has enabled us to roll up such a tremendous and commendable record.

IN 1922 ATLANTA YELLOW CABS TRAVELED

733,650 MILES

29.46 TIMES AROUND THE WORLD

That you may more readily grasp what these remarkable records mean we give below a few comparisons of time and distance.

—YELLOW CABS traveled a total of 733,650 miles in 1922, which by comparison mean that——YELLOW CABS traveled 29.46 times around the world at the equator. Equatorial circumference 24,902 miles.

—YELLOW CABS traveled 231.43 times from New York City to San Francisco, a distance by rail of 3,170 miles.

—YELLOW CABS traveled the distance from New York City to Liverpool and return, a distance of 7,093 statute miles, every 3.52 days in 1922.

—YELLOW CABS traveled 61,137.5 miles per month in 1922 or 2.45 times around the earth per month.

—YELLOW CABS traveled 2,010 miles every day in 1922, or practically from Atlanta to Los Angeles, a distance of 2,321 miles, or —YELLOW CABS traveled around the world at the equator every 12.33 days of 1922.

IN 1922 ATLANTA YELLOW CABS TRANSPORTED

326,075 PASSENGERS

By absolute reliability, safety, utmost convenience, and courteous and solicitous chauffeurs, Yellow Cabs feel that they firmly entrenched themselves in the confidence and esteem of the Great American Public.

YELLOW CABS were organized in Atlanta in 1920, and in February of that year a modest start was made with ten cabs. Today, the Yellow Cab Company, of Atlanta, are the largest operators in Dixie.

The 1920 census gave the population of Atlanta as 200,000.

—YELLOW CABS transported 326,075 persons in 1922, or nearly twice the population of the city of Atlanta.

—YELLOW CABS transported an average of 27,127.9 persons about the city every month of 1922.

—YELLOW CABS transported every man, woman and child of this city an average distance of 3.21 miles in 1922.

—YELLOW CABS transported an average of 893 persons every one of the 365 days of 1922. And during the month of December they averaged 1,396 passengers daily.

happened or are just about to happen. The "do it now" impulse fairly throbs out by the advertisement in the alchemy of suggestion the language of the leaden type is immediately transmuted into the gold of buying.

"The manufacturer who advertises in the daily press helps the retailer who handles his products, and the retailer who advertises in the same paper has a strong and a double pull on the consumer."

So, it is helpful all around. It puts practically unknown communities on the business map, and the small town broadens into the big one, and new enterprises bring it to the front.

The fixed daily habit of newspaper advertising continually works wonders.

FOR STATE TERMINALS.

At the annual state convention in Dublin this week of the Georgia Farmers' Union a resolution endorsing the proposed constitutional amendment for state-owned port terminals at some point on the Georgia coast was unanimously adopted.

This was a forward step, and illustrates that the farmers are vitally concerned in such a movement.

Secretary McLendon, of the state department; Dr. C. H. Kittrell, member of the house from Laurens county, and others, including the other members of the state port commission, have given wide thought and study to this question.

Last year the commission visited the great port system at Montreal, Canada, and also the state-owned port system at New Orleans.

The members were convinced beyond any reasonable doubt that the most constructive economic development in the interest of Georgia production would be the establishment of such a port system.

It will become one of the leading issues before the forthcoming legislature.

PERTINENT QUESTION.

In a recent issue of The Manufacturers' Record, E. L. Thomas, president of the Thomas Garbar Company of Birmingham, asks the following significant question:

"Have we totally lost the principle of doing business under the law of supply and demand, and substituted therefor a mechanical standard to be made operative at the will of some man, or body of men, governmental or otherwise?"

In other words is the law of supply and demand to be destroyed by governmental interference?

It is a question that the country should well consider.

The tendency of our national government to bureaucracy, and of the national congress to make political footballs out of great economic problems, and of politicians to sacrifice judgment and common sense by fanning prejudices and passions, and of two-by-four office-seekers assuming to agitate the regulation of business and industry by more laws—these are some of the factors that are destroying this basic principle of merchandising; and the quicker they are dealt with the better.

This nation has been retarded by too much legislation, too much politics, too much radicalism, too much congress, too much governmental interference. This applies to states—especially Georgia—as well as to the nation.

The finest healing hand that could be poured over Georgia this summer would be for the legislature to submit the biennial session bill, stabilize a fair system of state and local taxation, provide pressing improvements and maintenance for the institutions, provide adequately and satisfactorily for the common schools, make available full federal aid for roads and strengthen the plan for a state-wide system, stop the sale and trafficking in pocket firearms—and adjoin and go home.

Georgia must be relieved of this disturbing, disquieting, disorganizing, destructive system of a 50-day annual session of the legislature.

"More business, less legislation; more industry, less politics; more production, less destruction!" That ought to be the slogan of every man and woman in Georgia.

"A correspondent" is informed that seven dozen poems on "Spring" are still marked "Hold."

The country is preparing already for its fourth of July celebration—Dempsy will fight on that day.

The peach crop still shows the vitality of ninety-and-nine lives.

The people who don't like the variable "Spring" weather, are referred to Mark Twain's assertion that, while everybody talks about the weather, nobody does anything.

Though, at this late date, we haven't got the garden, thank God, we've got the ground!

Just From Georgia

BY FRANK L. STANTON.

Spring in Billville.

She's keeps on a-sayin' as a-lonesome as can be:
"Spring's down here in Billville, an' it's callin' you an' me!"
I see the old-time meadows—I hear the old-time birds.
An' the wind that waves the lilies sets music to home-words.

"Spring's down here in Billville, where all the thrushes stay, an' I feel my heart a-goin' the honey-suckle way!"
I see the daisies springin'—all dewy-sweet an' free.
I hear the river singin' an' callin', you an' me!"

I tell her: "Ain't the flowers a-blossomin' round here?"
An' ain't the sky above us sun-shiny—bright an' clear?"
But still there comes the answer—as a-lonesome as can be:
"The sweetest Spring's in Billville, an' it's callin' you an' me!"

The Leisure Class.
Reporters who have gone from the unprosperous South to Greater New York, have invariably written to their old home-town friends: "We are pulling down a very good salary."

But it is just to them to say that as far as recreation goes, those known to Atlanta have "made good."

"Toughed it out," and finally registered in Easy Street.

But think of what opportunities there must be in that locality, at the time when a writer for The New York Evening Post has not only organized what he calls "The Three-Hours-for-Lunch Club," but has ended and launched a ship, with the name of "The Three-Hours-for-Lunch Club."

Think of the opportunities in the newspaper business when the news for the breakfast and twilight who do nothing at all but get the tables of the rich and poor, can give dreamships to the sons!

Faith in Spring.
The poets seldom, if ever, lose faith in spring. They get their little song from Augusta Wall—
Springtime is coming—
Tis now on the way!
Skies topaz and azure,
Whirled by the wind,
Green in the meadows,
Refreshing their grass.

Bands of birds, trying.
So fleet on the wing!
Through budding vines flitting,
All busy gossiping,
Heard them, happy mates,
"Twittr'ing of the spring!"

Soft bills and lowlands
Are budding and growing,
And with birds mating,
We are gossiping,
Of the sweet coming—
The coming of spring!

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

PRESUMPTION OF GUILT.

It health and life were as highly regarded and as carefully guarded by our police as is property, any person found going about with something in his pocket would be arrested and would be subject to arrest and isolation as a suspicious character. Free and unimpeded shooting is acquiring the dignity of a popular sport in America. The morality and morality attributable to this pastime are as nothing compared with the frightful amount of sickness and the enormous death rate from disease spread by persons who go about uncleaned by the way they have what purport to be "colds."

Two dozen different diseases which commonly masquerade, at least at the onset, as "just colds," and which are most infectious, most likely to spread in a crowd, are all communicable in the spray of moisture which carries for a distance of four feet from the face when the individual talks without a mask or muffle to catch the spray. Therefore any one coming down with any of these two dozen respiratory infections and knowing himself and the person with whom he is in contact is perhaps "just a cold," is likely to give his disease, whatever it may prove to be, to persons who happen to come within four feet of his face while he is talking, if he wears no mask or muffle.

I said two dozen different diseases masquerade in the state of onset as "just colds." Let us run over the list once more, just to remind ourselves of the characters that we know enough to realize what has happened when we have been infected, and to remember that the most common and most deadly of these diseases is influenza.

The first 14 diseases named are of a specific kind, that is, the virus or germs, passing from person to person in the moisture spray or discharges from nose and throat, will produce only the same disease. The other 10 conditions are not specific, which makes it all the more interesting, for the virus or germs of Smith's bronchitis or Jones' quins may cause either of these diseases or simulate or corrupt when poor Jones gets in the way of Smith's bronchitis.

No one under heaven can positively predict at the onset of an illness, which of the foregoing two dozen diseases it is going to be. Therefore it is extremely inconsiderate for any one purporting to have "just a cold" to approach with the fire of other persons.

THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA. FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1923.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. MINTYRE

New York, April 19.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: A square in the Forties. Teachers of Mah Jong. Lady Nic's—a woman's short name. A pajama store. Two antique barber shops. Middle-aged ladies journeying to tea dances with their gizzards.

Mud bath cures. A theatre of Expressionism. A town hall. And a something about me made that little group laugh. And patients leave me helpless. I'll get off this block.

All the dandies are wearing plaid trousers. And the girls carry short cane huggers on the shoulder by a strap. A famous cantatrice by a visiting maharaja. Fannie Brice in a yellow coupe. The usual gang of comedians in front of the La Guardia.

What a change around the old Claridge corner! Old Ali still wheezes about with his moth-eaten monkey suit and organ. Once he jumped into a row at the Hippodrome. Then one day he missed, Val O'Farrell, the detective.

The Forty-second street pretenses to wisdom. Commisars of champagne, dancing and ukelele. Wonder if the dancing floor still revolves at Murray's. Wish I could eat butter-cakes without having nightmares.

Reporters who have gone from the unprosperous South to Greater New York, have invariably written to their old home-town friends: "We are pulling down a very good salary."

But it is just to them to say that as far as recreation goes, those known to Atlanta have "made good."

HARDING SHAPING CAMPAIGN BASIS

Slender Majority in Congress Makes Necessary Dependence on Casual Support of Democrats.

Washington, April 19.—President Harding has begun the delicate task of shaping that crucial section of his legislative program on which his campaign for re-election will be based. He is compelled to exercise great foresight and sureness of touch in this task for two reasons.

First, his slender majority in the house and senate makes it necessary for him to depend either on the independent republican progressive or on casual democratic support in order to carry his measures. Hence he must sound them out and ascertain in advance so far as possible what he will be able to put through and thus avoid recommendations which would cause a fatal amount of disapproval.

Second, the senate is in for a long, tedious, time-killing debate in the international court proposal. The issue of nations has been injected into the picture and practically every member of the senate will have one or more speeches to deliver. Then there will be the long drawn-out running debate, the consideration of amendments and the reservation of the voting down of the treaty and motions, and the inevitable political harangues which both sides will indulge in freely. Also, there are the dozen or so regular appropriations bills which require several months under the most favorable conditions.

Must Arrange System.

This heavy legislative schedule makes it necessary for the president to arrange a system by which everything can be dovetailed and squeezed into the limited time available. Senate leaders favor stringing out the debate on the international court, sandwiching it with other legislative business. It could be taken up and laid aside whenever a new appropriation bill comes up, as was done with the ship subsidy.

Harding must fight against time in the next session for in the six months of the new congress before the nominating conventions in June, he must complete the legislative record on which he proposes to go before the country. After May, he will have the whole stage. Congress will do no business whatever.

Before the adjournment for the convention, Harding hopes to have congress enact the routine supply bills, approve membership in the court and pass several outstanding measures of national importance. Among these, he has in mind reorganization of the railroads, regrouping them into regional systems with many administrative economies such as pooling of equipment, joint use of terminals and the like. The president consulted with Chairman Cummins of the senate interstate commerce committee on this, Tuesday.

Immigration Question.

2.—Immigration legislation, which will include the satisfactory features of the rigid three per cent law and yet provide restrictions on a selective basis, which will weed out undesirable aliens, is recommended by Secretary of Labor Davis.

3.—Reservation of the merchant marine. In view of the rejection of the ship subsidy and the apparent inability to dispose of the fleet on terms which would insure its continued operation, the president has decided to keep on running the ships under the strict system of government bookkeeping which does not show the insurance and some other overhead costs. Congress will be asked to supply money to meet these continuing deficits.

4.—Tax reduction has been urged by Secretary Mellon but progressives are against this and, on the contrary, are demanding heavier levies on massed wealth. The cost of government is falling very slowly because of the heavy fixed charges that must be met and therefore it is impossible to reduce taxes materially in the near future. For every reduction a compensating increase must be made in some other revenue. The Harding consequently desires to escape discussion of taxes entirely.

New Plan to Kill Weevil Offered Georgia Farmers

Brushing Stalks With Pine Bough Will Get Results, Says J. J. Gunn.

The most effective weapon against the boll weevil is the cheapest and commonest to be found on any Georgia farm, in the opinion of J. J. Gunn, well-known Warrenton farmer, who Thursday advanced an entirely new plan for curbing the "billion-dollar bandit."

The weapon recommended by Mr. Gunn is a limb from a scrub pine tree, the same to be wielded as a brush and used to lightly beat the cotton stalk during its period of bloom and four maturity.

Mr. Gunn's anti-weevil scheme was outlined to a representative of The Constitution Thursday by W. J. Norris, now of Atlanta, but formerly a planter of Warren county, who declares that he is interested in its practicability and common sense.

Mr. Gunn's Plan.

"Mr. Gunn advocates that the farmer go over his cotton field each day," explained Mr. Norris. "He should brush the cotton with a pine bough or a stick. The idea is to dislodge the weevil from his cool refuge on the plant and knock him to the ground."

"Here he 'surfs' and if he doesn't move quickly the hot ground will kill him. It is also a fact that if the eggs of the weevil are in a constantly disturbed condition—one that daily brushing will cause—they will never hatch."

"The practicability of the plan," Mr. Norris explained that it has been found that a single workman can brush 10 acres of cotton a day. The weevils of the crop could easily be brushed whatever acreage they are able to chop.

"I know it to be a fact," said Mr. Norris. "That whenever a footpath runs through a cotton field, the rows immediately bordering the path will produce vastly more cotton than the other rows. I also have in my possession a letter from a prominent DeKalb county farmer to the effect that cotton stalks growing in the middle of a wagon road he opened through one of his fields yielded abundantly while the other stalks were literally eaten up by the weevil."

Doesn't Like Company.

"The inference is plain. These cases show that the weevil doesn't like company or human company. They show that if he is constantly disturbed by shaking of the plant caused by passage of people or wagons, he will leave the plant alone."

Mr. Norris produced a letter from Mr. Gunn to J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture, setting forth the fact that Mr. Gunn had tested this "brushing" plan and found that it broods better results than frequent applications of calcium arsenate.

Mr. Gunn cited an account of 1922 when he planted 10 adjoining acres in cotton and applied arsenate to five of them and "brushed" the remaining five. The five treated with the brush he declared, produced 1,100 more pounds of seed cotton than did the five treated with arsenate.

Letter on Weevil.

The letter is as follows in full: "During the year 1922, the writer planted 10 acres in cotton about two miles from Warrenton, in Warren county. The writer consented for the Southern Cotton Oil company to regularly apply calcium arsenate upon 5 acres of the 10, which they did as follows:

June 23, 1922, 27 pounds; June 30, 24 pounds; July 6, 20 pounds; July 10, 20 pounds; July 25, 20 pounds; July 28, 30 pounds; August 3, 25 pounds; August 7, 25 pounds; August 10, 25 pounds; August 19, 25 pounds; August 25, 25 pounds; August 31, 25 pounds.

"On the other 5 acres of the 10 the undersigned writer only used brushes every day until the 10th day of August, and after the cotton was gathered from the entire 10 acres, the writer gathered 1,100 more pounds of seed cotton from the 5 acres upon which the Southern Cotton Oil company had applied the arsenate in the amounts and dates above specified.

"There was gathered from the 5 acres upon which the calcium arsenate was used 7,250 pounds of seed cotton.

"There was gathered from the 5 acres upon which the brushes were used and no calcium arsenate 8,350 pounds of seed cotton.

"The above 10 acres were situated

Girl, Blindfolded, to Drive Automobile in Atlanta Traffic Jam Today at Noon

Kodah, the girl who sees without eyes, driving Studebaker Big Six touring car.

Kodah, the most baffling vaudeville performer, appearing at Loew's Grand theater, will drive a Studebaker Big Six touring car through the crowded streets of Atlanta today, during the noon rush, while completely blindfolded.

"I'll just show the men a few tricks in driving," said Mrs. Kodah, who resents the claim of men who say that women are not good drivers. The occult phenomenon which makes it possible for Kodah to do all manner of things blindfolded, with much greater ease and quickness than the average person, when it comes to two good eyes, baffles not only the layman, but the scientist as well.

In every big city in which Kodah has appeared recently she has successfully piloted a Studebaker through the crowded streets, with the greatest ease, even though completely blindfolded, in the presence of a committee of disinterested parties.

A committee has been selected to accompany Kodah on her drive through Atlanta, one of whom is a representative of The Constitution.

Begins at 12:30 Sharp.

At 12:30 sharp, Mrs. Kodah will leave the rooms of the Yarrowbrough Motor company at Peachtree and Harris streets, and will drive south on Peachtree and Broad to Mitchell, on Mitchell to Whitehall, and on Whitehall-Peachtree to Loew's Grand theater, where she is appearing for the rest of the week.

Mrs. Kodah has used a number of cars for similar demonstrations of her marvelous power, in other cities, including the Studebaker. It was her request to Manager James, of the Grand, that a Studebaker be secured for the Atlanta demonstration, stating in her request that the ease of operation and control of the Studebaker was highly beneficial to her in performing this seemingly impossible feat.

Colored Bishop Speaks.

Bishop J. S. Plummer, in delivering the opening address to the ministers of the Atlanta district conference in First A. M. E. church, Rockdale Park, Thursday morning, advised the ministers not to complain about the exodus of the negroes from the south. They did not represent the best class of colored people, who are working to help make the south the best place to live in," he said.

Brush Cotton Daily.

In commenting upon the letter, Mr. Norris explained that the plan was to start brushing the cotton daily as soon as blossoming was well over and to continue it until "fodder-pulling" time in August when the latest fruit of the plant has had time to sufficiently mature for protection against the vernal pest.

"Any person who is sufficiently interested in working out the weevil problem," he added, "will find, if he uses the figures given in this letter, that Mr. Gunn not a hale to that, and better, which is an improvement on any claim for any weevil remedy I have ever heard advanced."

Mr. Norris stated that Mr. Gunn would be able to give details of his plan to anyone who wrote him inclosing a stamped envelope.

CLEVELAND GIRL DANCES 90 HOURS FOR NEW RECORD

Cleveland, Ohio, April 19.—Completing 10 hours and 10 minutes continuous dancing, Miss June Curry walked off the floor of a local dancing academy tonight, the world champion dancer.

When she quit at 9:10 o'clock she had beaten by 1 hour and 52 minutes the record of 88 hours and 18 minutes established today by Arthur Howard Klein.

New Rates Announced On Cable Charges By Western Union

New York, April 19.—The Western Union Telegraph company and the Commercial Cable company today announced reductions in cablegrams to foreign countries effective tomorrow. The new rates apply to full rate, deferred rate, cable letter and week-end letter service.

The Commercial company announced that the preferred service would continue at the old rate.

Invitation to Address Associated Press Is Accepted by Harding

Washington, April 19.—President Harding has accepted an invitation to deliver an address next Tuesday at the annual meeting in New York of the membership of the Associated Press.

The chief executive, who probably will be accompanied by Mrs. Harding, will arrive in New York early Tuesday. His address will be made at the luncheon held in connection with the annual meeting.

Plans for the visit of Mr. Harding to New York other than the delivery of his address were not disclosed today at the white house, where the acceptance of the invitation was announced.

STATE PHYSICAL EDUCATORS WILL CONVENE TODAY

The first annual convention of the Georgia Physical Educational association will open this morning at the capitol, with physical instructors from all parts of Georgia attending. Many prominent speakers are included in the program. The afternoon session will be held at 2 o'clock at Emory university, where Miss Leona Ivy, director of the Tuhman High school, of Atlanta, Ga., will deliver the principal address.

Other speakers will be Dr. H. D. Neale, health officer of Richmond county; Dr. T. E. Abernethy, secretary of the state board of health; James B. Williams, and Miss Lucy Adams, physical director of the Atlanta Y. W. C. A.

Saturday morning's session will be given with a round table discussion. The principal address will be delivered by Miss Harriet Randolph, of Ames Court college.

Don't Order Just "Coal." Specify Campbell's

There's as much difference in coal as in clothing or food. You can't tell the difference by looking at it, but you'll learn by experience.

Campbell's Jellico and Campbell's Furnace Lump have been the steady fuel of thousands of customers for year after year. It is clean coal, with lots of heat and little ash. You can't buy better; you might buy worse.

The time to order is now—for there is a marked saving in cost, supplies are ample, and deliveries prompt.

Satisfactory terms can be arranged.

JUDGE REFUSES POSTPONEMENT OF MORSE TRIAL

Washington, April 19.—Justice Stafford refused today in the District of Columbia supreme court to further postpone the trial of Charles W. Morse and others on indictments charging conspiracy to defraud the federal government through war-time ship contracts. Counsel for Harry Morse, one of the defendants, had asked for postponement because of his physical condition. The actual opening of the trial was set by the court for next Monday, but the impeding of a jury will begin tomorrow. Lawyers in the case estimated that the trial would continue for from one to two months. Meantime, Harry F. Morse again was admitted $10,000 bail.

Marooned People Face Starvation On Lonely Island

Attempt to Reach Party by Airplane Fails When Ice Breaks.

Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., April 19.—Ten persons, marooned on Little Fox Island in ice-bound Lake Michigan, were pushed mercilessly nearer death by starvation late Thursday when the airplane from Selfridge Field which was to have brought them food crashed through the ice in attempting to land at Northport.

No sooner had reports of the baffled relief expedition been received here, however, than officers of the aviation post set out to replace the wrecked plane. Weather permitting, a 350-horse power De Havilland plane will be dispatched early in the morning, scheduled to pick up provisions at Northport and rush them to the sufferers, who include nine men and a woman.

Major Carl Spatz, commander of the field, is directing a force of mechanics working on the giant plane, and hopes to get it into condition in time for her to sail by sunrise.

At Northport the De Havilland plane will be turned over to Lieutenant E. C. Whitehead, who piloted the first plane and escaped injury when it crashed. After loading up with provisions, Whitehead will dash for Little Fox Island.

To Be Dropped From Air.

No attempt will be made to land, but the provisions will be dropped on the camp below. With mild weather prevailing, food is the only imminent necessity of the marooned ten.

Report of the imperiled islanders was brought by three men who crossed the ice, penetrating great stretches of slush and water, and reached Northport late Wednesday. They were the strongest of the marooned party, selected to reach the outside world and tell a thrilling story which may yet end tragically, of another great battle of man against the elements of ice, snow, hunger and privation in the northern Great Lakes region.

The victims went to Little Fox Island last fall to cut timber. The provisions carried were expected to be ample to last until they could return to the mainland. Winter however, continued, and the little colony found itself three weeks ago with no food but a few frozen potatoes and apparently no means of return to civilization.

Followed two vain attempts to get to the mainland for food. Blinding snowstorms, heavy gales and shifting ice gorges baffled each. There were several narrow escapes from death by drowning or freezing. Each time the three or four men making

FATE OF WILSON RESTS WITH JURY IN BEN HILL COURT

Fitzgerald, Ga., April 19.—(Special.)—J. C. Wilson's fate rests now with the jury. Arguments by attorneys were finished at 6 o'clock and Judge D. A. R. Crum charged the jury on the various phases of the case. Attorneys Ross, of Macon; Watts Powell, of Vienna, and Solicitor General J. B. Wall spoke an hour each for the prosecution, while Attorneys Hal Lawson, of Abbeville; W. L. McClellan, of Macon, and A. J. McDonald, of this city, spoke an hour each for the defense.

All during the arguments the court room was filled with spectators, many of whom came from Dooley, Crisp and Crisp counties. A large number of women were interested auditors. The jury retired immediately after receiving the charge to begin consideration of the case.

CHARGE CONSPIRACY TO SUGAR EXCHANGE

ness as the railroad legislation last summer was against labor. Issues of annual prosecution of those responsible, other action under consideration includes:

1. Amendment of all fictitious contracts for sugar made since the speculation began, and prohibition of any payments or settlements between parties to the contracts.
2. Possible action against those involved in future trading in commodities used daily in every American household.
3. Criminal action, on the basis of conspiracy, might also lead to start-up of an even wider conspiracy to boost sugar prices, which might draw in many others besides the few involved in the New York case.

The action Thursday was taken after several conferences between Daugherty and Acting Attorney General Seymour, who gathered the evidence in cooperation with District Attorney Hayward, of New York. The attorney general, it was learned Thursday, has been engaged at Asheville for a week in drawing up the petition filed Thursday, taking great care to check up any loopholes through which escape might be made. He forwarded the petition to Seymour last Wednesday, who immediately laid it before the president.

Called "Conspiracy."

The petition asked the court to enjoin the defendants "from further engaging in and carrying out in the United States and other countries, and when we are sure that such a request is justified we will ask that additional relief," he said Thursday.

Terms of Injunction.

The petition, charging that the transactions of the sugar speculators had caused an increase of more than 82 per hundred pounds, asked that the defendants be "perpetually enjoined from maintaining and operating the exchange." It also asked that the exchange and the association be "perpetually enjoined from in any manner publishing or making public any price of sugar established by transactions on the exchange."

"Paper speculation on a shocking scale" was uncovered by the department of justice. During February and March, the petition states, only one-thousandth of one per cent of the number of contracts cleared through the exchange were consummated by delivery. Only 300 tons of sugar were actually delivered as a result of transactions on the exchange, while the books show a business of 1,515,000 tons, as compared with a business of 362,850 tons in January.

Directly on Exchange.

Laying the blame for the jump in sugar prices directly on the exchange, the petition stated that "there existed during this period no economic justification for a sudden or appreciable increase in the price of raw or refined sugar, or for any other increase," calling attention to the same time to the surplus of sugar. "Every advance of 1 cent a pound in the price of refined sugar costs the consumers of the United States approximately $2,000,000 a week," the petition stated. Continuance of the operations by the speculators would "constitute an irreparable public injury," it said.

Granting of the petition will forbid any further "paper speculation" by the individuals named in this petition, in New York or elsewhere, because it is drawn individually, mentioning by name the officials of the exchange.

The government's action follows an investigation of nearly four months by the department of justice, as agents were set to work privately by the attorney general some time before the jump in the market, early in February.

Mrs. Betty Lyles Wilson

Mrs. Wilson is famed the world over for her wonderfully delicious cakes. They are shipped to all parts of the Globe for special affairs where the best of Cakes are demanded.

Mrs. Wilson has for years enjoyed the distinction of making the President's Christmas Cake.

Mrs. Wilson's baking motto is:

"To have complete success with no failures, care should be used in selection of Baking Powder."

CALUMET

The Economy BAKING POWDER

Some little time ago I made a careful study and investigation of the baking powder subject and I feel fully repaid. I am firmly convinced from the results I have received that there is no baking powder to equal Calumet for wholesomeness and economy, and I also recommend Calumet Baking Powder for its never failing results.

Will Test Legality Of Mayor's Actions In Closing Show

Waycross, Ga., April 19.—(Special.)—Continuing their fight against the action of the mayor of Waycross in closing certain attractions of the Brown & Dyer carnival in Hebardville several weeks ago a petition signed by 124 citizens of Hebardville, protesting against the action of the mayor, and requesting the city commission to see that such an occurrence did not happen again was presented to the city commission today.

Mayor Cowart discussed in detail with the commissioners his action, and after City Attorney Parker gave as his opinion that the mayor had the power under the charter to go one mile beyond the city limits in the exercise of the police department's authority, the commission in session failed to act upon the petition.

Attorney Black notified council that the question would be tested in the courts.

"CANNED HEAT" SALE MYSTERY IS SOLVED

Albany, Ga., April 19.—Mystery surrounding an unprecedented and rapidly growing sale of "canned heat" to negroes by Albany drug stores was solved today when one of the purchasers explained that it was used to mix with ginger ale and other soft drinks.

"Heat" is stronger than stimp likker, and a whole lot cheaper," said the negro, when the drug clerk inquired as to the cause of the enormous demand. One drug store is said to have sold more than 500 cans within the last week. The "canned heat" it was explained, contains grain alcohol.

PROHIBITIONISTS MENTION PINCHOT

this about Pinchot arise is evidence of the delicacy of the Harding program, and the difficulty there is going to be in keeping it good. But the greater number and the more practical men among the leaders of the Anti-Saloon League are quite satisfied with what Harding has done for enforcement, and will not abandon him on that count. So strongly has Harding leaned toward enforcement and toward the Anti-Saloon League, that it was said seriously by some disgruntled republicans that Harding's appointment of the present prohibition enforcement officers was based, not on the recommendation of any republican, but wholly on the recommendation of William Jennings Bryan.

Yet Another Reason.

There is yet another reason why Pinchot is unlikely to figure in the pre-convention situation next year. The Pennsylvania term for governor is four years. Next year, Pinchot will be in the middle of it. And he is not likely to run the risk of wounding the sensibilities of his state by becoming a candidate for president before he has completed half his term as governor. It is occasionally said in Pennsylvania that Pinchot is under a cloud to fill out his term. There is not much definiteness to that pledge. It rests on Pinchot's having said several times during his campaign that he had no ambition except to "make a good governor of Pennsylvania and then go fishing."

But while Pinchot will never enter the race of his own initiative or as an avowed candidate, it is always possible that in a deadlock in the convention he might be dragged in. This is, of course, only on the assumption that the present program of renominating Harding should fall through for any reason, and that the field should become an open one. Not only does Pinchot appeal to the drys, it is also a fact that as things stand today Pinchot is more nearly the heir of the old Roosevelt following than any other one republican.

To some extent General Wood once had this legacy, and to some extent Hiram Johnson once had it. But today, among men in active political life, Pinchot has it almost without contest.

Program Stands.

As has already been said, the program of renominating Harding still stands. If this program continues to stand the republican party next year will be "dry." And even if the program of nominating Harding should break down, and if some other candidate should be nominated, the republican party will still be certain to be "dry." This is an accepted party policy on the part of the republicans. They propose to be "dry" in their own right, and if possible maneuver the democrats into the position of seeming to be "wet."

As for the democrats themselves there is a division of feeling. McAdoo and the McAdoo leaders who, as things stand today, compose close to a half of the republican nomination, are as dry as the republican party. They are really more sincerely dry than the republicans. They are as dry as the Anti-Saloon League itself. The other branch of the democratic party has evolved a plan for being wet enough without being too wet. They have a plan for putting forward in the democratic platform a thorough going and well-thought-out proposal for the restoration of state rights. This means the restoration of state rights in the broadest sense.

They propose to make the campaign the basis of taking away some of the many functions which the federal government has been absorbing to itself for a generation, and restoring them to the state governments. The idea is that under the wing of this general proposal for the restoration of functions to the states, there should be given to the state governments the duty of enforcing the prohibition act. This would give the various states a certain amount of latitude in defining what really constitutes an "intoxicating beverage."

Brilliant Luncheon and Tea For Convention Delegates

The delegates to the State Congress of Mothers and the Parent-Teachers' association were the guests at a beautiful luncheon Thursday at the Druid Hills Golf club given by the members of the fifth district of the Atlanta Parent-Teacher association.

Mrs. Arthur Tufts and Mrs. Hinton Hopkins were the official hostesses.

The charming decorations were partly done by the grammar school children who made the gay butterflies and birds which were fashioned of bright tinted paper and placed among the foliage used to beautify the spacious club rooms. These were made under the supervision of Miss Elise Boylston and Miss Charlotte Smith, the art public school instructors.

Great bouquets of dogwood and wild azaleas were placed in all of the corners of the wide entrance hall and quantities of the same lovely flowers were used in the dining room where an oblong table was adorned with French baskets filled with wild blossoms and trailing vines and ferns. On the handles of these baskets were perched butterflies and birds. Place cards on which spring flowers were hand-painted marked the speaker's table and the favors were long boxes ornamented with tiny butterflies.

The Speaker's Table.

At the speaker's table were the distinguished guests, past presidents, the speakers and state officers. Those at this table were Mrs. James R. Little, Mrs. Howard Payne, Mrs. John W. Rowlett, Mrs. J. E. Andrews, Mrs. C. P. Ogburn, Mrs. Charles A. Hillborn, of Macon; Mrs. O. L. Gresham, of Waynesboro; Mrs. J. F. Hofmayer, of Albany; Mrs. J. F. Holmes, of Fort Gaines; Mrs. J. J. Stone, of Columbus; Mrs. P. H. Jeter, of Decatur; Mrs. Walter Cheatham, of Macon; Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton; Mrs. Louis M. Johnson, of Athens; Mrs. J. L. Bearden, of Augusta; Miss Katherine Dier, of Gainesville; Mrs. J. R. Abraham, of Brunswick; Mrs. John Doe, of Vidalia; Mrs. Z. L. Peterson, of Macon; Mrs. J. A. Hutton, of Savannah; Mrs. John W. Rowlett, Mrs. T. J. Carter, of Macon; Mrs. Harriet McCalland, Miss Blanche Lovelace, Mrs. Albert Akers, Mrs. Clifford Walker, of Monroe; Mrs. J. Phil Campbell, Miss Mary Postell, Miss Kate Green, Miss Mrs. George Naper, Mrs. Shepard Bryan, Mrs. Fred Wesley, of Savannah; Mrs. Harrie W. Dewa, of Athens, and others.

The Speakers.

The invocation was given by Mrs. T. G. Hannahan, the president of the St. Luke's Parent-Teacher association.

Mrs. Arthur Tufts gave a charming address of welcome and introduced the speakers who were Mrs. Shepard Bryan, Mrs. George Naper, Miss Mary Postell and Miss Kate Green Hess.

Mrs. Bryan spoke of "The Children's Hour." Mrs. Naper gave a charming talk on the value of music in the home. Miss Postell spoke of the advantage of nature study, and Miss Hess talked of children of the kindergarten age.

There were several hundred guests present.

Teas at Woman's Club.

Another charming social event, a part of the convention's men in session in Atlanta was the tea at the Atlanta Woman's club, at which Mrs. Charles Goodman was the official hostess.

Elaborate decorations of spring blossoms and foliage plants made the beautiful clubhouse more than usually lovely. After the formal reception of the many guests tea was served in the lovely new banquet hall.

The Receiving Line.

Mrs. Goodman stood at the head of the receiving line and with her stood Mrs. B. M. Boykin, president; Mrs. Norman Sharp and Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, vice presidents; Mrs. E. H. Goodhart, chairman public welfare of the Atlanta Woman's club; Willis A. Sutton, superintendent Atlanta public schools; Dr. W. W. Gaines, president Atlanta board of education; H. D. Knowles, president Georgia Educational association; W. B. Owens, president National Educational association; Mrs. Bruce Carr Jones, president Georgia Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher association; Mrs. Harry Chamberlain, president of the League of Women Voters; Mrs. Z. A. Peterson, president of the Fifth District Parent-Teacher association; Mrs. Fred Wessels, of Savannah, vice president of Georgia Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher association; Mrs. Frank McCormack, president Atlanta Parent-Teacher council, and Miss Rutha Wesley.

Mrs. Goodman was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. J. A. Carlisle, Mrs. Walter Hill, Mrs. W. W. Alexander, Mrs. F. H. Nadeau, Mrs. Charles Robertson, Mrs. H. C. McCutcheon, Mrs. J. W. Rogers, Mrs. Harold Rogers, Mrs. M. A. Baker, Mrs. A. Neuhauer, Mrs. Charles Godfrey, Mrs. Fred Leshro, Mrs. O. E. Burton, Mrs. John T. Toier, Mrs. T. G. Delphia, Mrs. G. A. Jossey, Mrs. A. L. Milligan, Mrs. John M. Cooper, Mrs. W. P. Lemmon and Mrs. Alice Taylor.

Open House on Sunday At Atlanta Woman's Club

On Sunday from 2:30 to 6:30 o'clock open house will be kept at the Atlanta Woman's club. All members of the club, the husband and family of every member, all open visitors to the city, and the general public are cordially invited to be present, to view the magnificent plan of which the club is justly proud.

The officers of the club and the executive board will receive in the main body of the club and in the auditorium to welcome all visitors. There will also be on hand girl scouts to assist in showing the guests over the house and grounds. They will be present at the dedication which will occur on Monday.

A feature of Sunday afternoon will be the music furnished by the Atlanta Woman's orchestra. Mrs. Annie Munger Mueller is the leader of this orchestra, and the members are as follows: Nellie Munger, violinist; Helen Louise Brown, violinist; Bertha Mildred Brown, solo cellist; Fannie Sezal Goldstein, solo pianist and accompanist; and Theresa Lewis Jones, cornetist. Musical numbers appropriate for the occasion will be furnished by the orchestra during the afternoon.

Large Audience Attends Y. W. C. A. Exercises Thursday

The Y. W. C. A. athletic and aesthetic dancing demonstration that was given at Eggleston hall, Thursday evening, at 8:30 o'clock, was attended by an audience that included educators from throughout the state, physical directors, local aesthetic dancing teachers, and those interested in physical training for girls and women. The event marked the closing exercises of the Y. W. C. A. symposium for this scholastic year.

In the gymnastic numbers were the pupils of Miss Lucy Marvin Adams, Y. W. C. A. health director and Miss Norine Sears, aesthetic dancing teacher. Miss Adams' pupils in gymnastic numbers were the members of the Y. W. C. A. business woman's symposium class, counselors and junior assistants of the Y. W. C. A. camp at Highland, Ga., and Mrs. F. E. Reeves and Miss Peggy Launius in a number that portrayed intimate glimpses into the life of a woman who is reducing.

Miss Sears' pupils in aesthetic numbers, were Misses Doris Martin, Marguerite Fischer, Elsa Stenger, Juanita Arledge, Alice Allen, Sibyl Richards, Ora Bewley, Annie Almond, Mrs. F. B. Stone, Mrs. R. Z. Upchurch, Mrs. M. Bewley, Misses Marion Phillips, Melvyn Gaudin, Virginia Whitman, Frances Carroll, Bessie Allen, Mollie Bressler, Ruth Singleton, Ruby Gaines, India Johnston, Elizabeth Stephens, Evelyn Bird, Lucy Walker and little Miss Evelyn Sears, the mascot.

Miss Louise Morgan, a prominent musician of Atlanta, sang the following group of songs, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. George T. Curtis: "Silent Lagoon," by Hamblin; "Blackbird Song," by Crill Scott, and "The Lilac Tree," by Gardian.

The pupils of Miss Adams demonstrated the health results of their physical training while Miss Sears' pupils demonstrated their training in grace, perfect rhythm and skill in technique.

Scout Board Gives Banquet.

The Boy Scout board of the Atlanta gave a banquet Wednesday evening, the eighteenth, and held an important meeting for its members. There were about seventy young men present.

A number of prominent Atlanta men interested in Scout work were present. Those making speeches were: Mr. Myers, Mr. Lichtenstein and the famous football player, now interested in Scout work, Al Leach. Leo Hester presided over the evening with the aid of Miss Kate Buchanan.

The banquet was superintended by two of Commercial High's first girl Scouts, Miss Tillie Altman and Miss Kate Buchanan, with the aid of Mrs. Mendall.

Who's Who In the B. P. W. C. State Convention

The convention of Business and Professional Women's Club of Georgia, which comes to a close today, has been a notable event. Some remarkable women of wide and varied interests have been present at these sessions.

Among the outstanding women is Miss Jane Van de Vrede, the president of the Atlanta Business and Professional Women's club.

Miss Van de Vrede is divisional director of Red Cross nursing service. She left for Charleston, S. C. last night to present a paper at the South Carolina State Nurses' meeting now in session.

She will return Saturday morning with Miss Clara D. Noyes, national director of nursing service of the American Red Cross.

Saturday Miss Van de Vrede has invited the superintendents of the training schools for nurses of the city to a luncheon at Chamberlain and Johnson's tea room in honor of Miss Noyes. These are Mrs. J. F. O'Connor, of Atlanta hospital; Miss Lillian Carter and Miss Hortense Marion, of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children; Mrs. G. Kenney, of St. Joseph's infirmary; Miss Elizabeth Robinson, of the southern division, American Red Cross; Miss Clara D. Noyes, of Washington, D. C.

Miss Alice Carpenter, of Valdosta, who is the secretary of the state federation, is the manager of a lumber company of Valdosta. She knows all about timber and railroad ties, what they cost, what they ought to be, and best of all, what they ought not to be. She has had a long and fine business experience and was a banker before she entered the lumber field.

Miss Lois Dowdle, who will speak at today's session at the East Lake club is a member of the staff of the State College of Agriculture, which is a part of the University of Georgia, at Athens. She will speak on "Pointing the Way," and on this subject she is eminently qualified to speak for this is what she does, going through the state as "farm demonstrator" and pointing the better way to do almost everything from milking the cows and planting the crops to canning fruit and feeding chickens.

Miss Nellie Walsh, of Savannah, is a business woman who owns and manages her own shop of apparel for women and with her partner has made a tremendous success of it. She employs only women in it and it is patronized exclusively by women and is exclusively for women. Miss Walsh has the distinction of having been the first Georgia woman to be appointed receiver. The late Judge Emory Sweet appointed her to take charge of the affairs of a defunct bank.

Miss Mary Bartlett, of Savannah, manages a dairy and does it with great success and skill. She is "on to her job" and has few superiors as a business executive.

Miss Clemmie Patton, of Dublin, has converted a bank building into a successful and important gift shop. When she decided to open her shop there was no available place in Dublin for such a shop except the building in which the bank had just closed its doors. She rented that and where the cashier once paid out money she takes it in—and with success.

Strict Compulsory Education Urged by Business Women

Miss Lois Dowdle, of the State College of Agriculture, at Athens, one of the prominent delegates attending the convention of the Georgia Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, here.

BY MARTHA GOODE ANDERSON.

The second day of the convention of the Georgia Business and Professional Women's clubs opened Thursday morning in the convention hall of the Winfield hotel with a business session at which matters relating to the life and purpose of the federation were discussed. One of the outstanding features of the morning session was the resolution introduced by Mrs. Viola Ross Napier, of Macon, and endorsed by the convention in regard to compulsory education which she desires to be made more effective.

Mrs. Napier said in a brief introduction that the law for compulsory education in Georgia was a good one as it was as it went but that it did not go far enough and was not too easily evaded. She said she believed that compulsory education was the means of raising the standard not only in educational circles but in all the state life as the education of the child is the finest investment to be made.

Following the business session at which reports from various state chairmen were read, the delegates listened to a lecture by Dr. Charles D. Williamson, of the national parks service, a bureau of the United States department of the interior.

Dr. Williamson's subject was "The Painted Desert Region" and was illustrated with lantern slides. He told of the origin of the Painted Desert, stating that science showed them descendants of cliff dwellers.

Catholic Club's Luncheon.

At noon a brilliant luncheon was given to the delegates by the Catholic Club of Business and Professional Women of Atlanta.

Miss Regina Corrigan, the president, presided. The guest of honor was Mrs. William H. Felton, Georgia's "grand old lady" and first woman United States senator. Mrs. Felton, who will soon be 85 years old, is just completing a tour of speech-making. She addressed her hearers as "my dear children" and told of the long ago days when women were considered as an adornment in the home rather than as anything else. She classified herself as one of Georgia's first business women as she was a school teacher in her young days in the first free school in the state. She told of the work done for women in the cotton mill section and said that no matter what might be said to the contrary, she herself would always praise those first cotton mill men who came to the relief of the dwellers in the cotton section, and by giving them a chance to work lifted them out of an almost hopeless poverty.

Women as Printers.

She told of her life of six years as a congressional clerk in Washington and of the unsuccessful effort she made to establish a printing plant for women because, she said, she thought that still thinks printing an

Miss Bowman Is Honored At Luncheon

Miss Virginia Bowman, a charming bride-elect of May, was honor guest at the exquisitely appointed luncheon given by Mrs. Alexander Campbell King at the Piedmont Driving club. Luncheon was served in the gray room, where the decorations featured peach blossoms, dogwood and wild azalea. The round table, covered with a lace cloth, had for the central decoration, a basket holding pastel shaded flowers, while smaller baskets holding these same flowers, alternated with silver candlesticks holding pink unshaded pink candles. The guests' places were marked with monogram cards of the hostess, hand-painted with spring flowers. Covers were placed for 22 guests.

Buckeye Club Holds Meeting.

The April meeting of the Buckeye Woman's club was held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Edison hall. There were about 50 in attendance. Mrs. Fred J. White being hostess for the afternoon. The hall was beautifully decorated with dogwood and several Japanese paintings belonging to Mrs. G. I. Keirn. Mrs. Earl Gregory contributed two piano numbers—prelude, by Chopin, and "Chandos Dance," by MacDowell. Mrs. W. Earl Quillian sang "When They Ring 'Tessa Golden Bells'" and "When I Build a World for You." Mrs. G. I. Keirn, who has spent eleven years in Japan, gave an especially interesting talk on "Japanese Festival Seasons." It was an Oriental afternoon and at the close of the artistic program Mrs. White served Oriental punch and dainty cakes. Preceding the program there was a short business session at which Mrs. Edwin M. Holbig presided. At Tuesday's meeting the club decided to entertain the Ohio delegates who expected to attend the meeting of the biennial council of Federation of Women's Clubs to be held in Atlanta in May.

A certificate of membership of the American Tree association has been received by the Buckeye Woman's club in recognition of the two trees planted by the members in Piedmont park.

Books for county libraries were collected Tuesday. Other members wishing to contribute books are asked to communicate with Mrs. Roy Mather, chairman of library extension.

The club has purchased a beautiful pin, the official insignia of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. At the meeting on Tuesday Mrs. W. H. Preston, founder of the Buckeye Woman's club, in a well chosen speech, presented the pin to the president, Mrs. Helbie, who in turn will pass it on to her successors.

On Friday, April 27, there will be an all-day sewing at the home of Mrs. Robert Vogel, 194 Cresthill avenue. The sewing will be in the interest of the Needlework guild and a full attendance is urged.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held May 22 at the home of Mrs. Roy Mather, 28 Fairview road. An interesting meeting has been planned at which time annual reports will be given.

Final Operalogue Will Be Given.

In the absence of Mrs. W. C. Jarnigan, who will be in Washington, D. C., attending the author's breakfast which is sponsored by the American League of Ten Women, Miss Evelyn Lovett will read Friday afternoon in the final musicals, "Romeo and Juliette," at the Woman's club auditorium at 3 o'clock.

Heretofore Mrs. Jarnigan has given all the readings for the musicals, and her presence will be greatly missed at this last performance, for her interpretations are always delightful, and she herself is a universal favorite. Miss Lovett, who is to take Mrs. Jarnigan's place on this occasion will add a new interest and charm to the musicals. She will appear in costume, wearing the medieval dress of the period of the story of Romeo and Juliette, and Juliette head dress.

"Romeo and Juliette" will be the last and perhaps most delightful of the series of opera musicals.

Miss Edna Bartholomew, who plays with all the feeling and mastery of touch of one who has attained perfection in her art, will accompany as usual.

Miss Minna Hecker, who will sing in the role of Juliette, will have an opportunity to show the wonderful range and lovely quality of her coloratura soprano. The famous waltz song of Juliette will be one of her solos, and with Byron Warner, very suitably as Romeo, she will sing the wonderful duet, "Ah, 'Tis True, 'Tis Day."

Ernest Allen, singing as Capulet, will lend his deep toned bass to the general harmony. With Mr. Allen the cast is complete, and will fulfill all expectations. They are all pupils of Margaret Hecker, and have been carefully trained for this musical.

Miss Hecker is a teacher of note and her pupils never fail to give satisfaction.

Disabled Soldiers Entertained.

The disabled soldiers at the government hospital No. 48, Peachtree road, were given an evening of entertainment by the employees from the district office of the United States veterans' bureau Tuesday, April 17.

The program opened with a solo by Miss Watts, accompanied at the Wesleyan Alumnae Will Meet at U. D. C. House

The Alumnae Association of Wesleyan college will hold a very important meeting Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the U. D. C. chapter house, corner of Sixth and Juniper streets.

This is the first meeting of the association since the launching of the "Greater Wesleyan" campaign, and the meeting will be one of special interest and enthusiasm. All graduates, former students and teachers are invited to be present.

Miss Lois Rogers, head of the department of education at Wesleyan, will have charge of the meeting. Miss Rogers is organizing the alumnae and matriculates all over the southern states, and has everywhere been greeted with a fine response from the former students. She is here for the purpose of reorganizing the Atlanta chapter of the association for its larger scope of work in the interest of "Greater Wesleyan."

While in the city Miss Rogers will be the guest of Mrs. M. E. Tilly in Ansley Park.

Miss Bowman Is Honor Guest At Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt Chipley entertained at dinner Thursday evening at their home on Wesley road, in honor of Miss Virginia Bowman, a charming bride-elect.

The elegantly appointed table was adorned with spring flowers in a large silver basket. Covers were placed for ten guests.

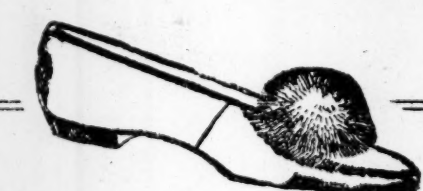

Program of Dances Benefits Alumnae.

A very entertaining program of dances was given Tuesday afternoon at the Marietta college hall for the benefit of the Sacred Heart Alumnae by the pupils of Miss Ann Agriola. Remarkable talent was displayed by the little dancers as well as by those taking part in the playlet.

Those taking part in the program were Florence Slate, Dorothy Slate, Marjorie Andrews, Vivian Warner, Dorothy Foster, Emily Savin, Louise Reeves, Grace Free, Margie Thompson and Mary Bailey.

JIL-BETT

BY LAURA JEAN LIBBEY

The Arab watched with glistering eyes the old man put the ruby down on the bench, turn, and walk with unsteady step to Jil-Bett's curtained cot. During the moment Daniel Bannock stood looking down upon Jil-Bett, deciding whether it was best to awaken her, or let her sleep, a long, sinewy arm was thrust through the open window, a hand clutched the ruby and the Arab fled down the street and into the shadows of the night.

With slow steps the old lapidary turned about; the door was slightly ajar from the wind. As he was closing it he recognized Jack walking past. He was quite sure he had been standing before his door. He thought ill of men who prowled about at night instead of being in their beds—unless they had important work to do.

What had brought the stranger there at the dead of night? The more he thought about it the more alarmed he grew. Then it occurred to him that he had not looked after Jil-Bett as carefully during the last few weeks as he should have done. He had been so preoccupied—bustled that he had been for long years. She had been allowed to roam about during the long evenings at will, without having been questioned by him as to where she had been.

To quiet his nerves a bit, he sat down on the doorstep, lighted his pipe for a smoke; the more he smoked the more he considered it. The more his eyes became open to the fact that the dreary life she was leading was wholly unsuited to the girl. Why had he lost sight of this during the last few years? She was no longer a little, merry, romping child; instead, a gloriously beautiful young girl.

Sitting there, he went all over the fact that he had given his sanction that she should wed a man whom he knew she loathed. Poor little Jil-Bett! When he was young he had wedded Unemployment Conferences.

The international labor conference which has been held during the last four years in accordance with Part XIII of the treaty of Versailles have been partially occupied with international reform in questions relating to unemployment and the finding of employment for workers.

The Washington draft convention concerning unemployment has up to the present been ratified by twelve nations—Bulgaria, Denmark, Finland, Great Britain, Greece, India, Italy, Japan, Norway, Romania, Sweden and Switzerland. This convention requires the periodic communication to the international labor office of statistics and other available information concerning unemployment, the establishment of a system of free public employment exchanges and the conclusion of reciprocity agreements with other states which have established systems of insurance against unemployment.

Although these draft conventions and three recommendations have been adopted by international labor conferences on this subject, those adopted at the second conference held in Geneva, applied the Washington convention to seamen and the question of finding employment for sailors; while at the third conference in Geneva, action was taken with a view to decreasing unemployment in agricultural pursuits.

Japanese Organize.

The international labor office has been informed that the inaugural meeting of the Japanese Economic League (Nihon Keizai Kenmei) was held in Tokyo on August 1, 1922. This league was organized by the leading business men of the country on the return of a group of important industrial employers sent by the Japan Industrial club to study conditions in America and Europe. The prospectus of the league states that, in view of the paramount importance of economic questions in the welfare of a modern nation, it has been found necessary to set up an organization which will be able to express definite views on economic questions for the guidance of the business world and of the government.

Among the questions referred to as requiring immediate attention are the regulation of prices, the encouragement of export trade, reform of the system of taxation, changes in industrial legislation and means of dealing with labor difficulties. One of the chief aims of the new league is to maintain relations with business organizations in other countries and especially to become a member of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Emigrants to Madagascar.

The international labor office has been informed that the French government has communicated to the Danish minister of foreign affairs a scheme for settlement on a large scale in Madagascar. A large area of arable and forest land would be placed at the disposal of Danish emigrants; they would be permitted to bring their own tools and their own members of the medical profession in Denmark have offered to accompany the emigrants and to stay with them for some time.

Public opinion in Denmark is not at present unanimous as to the advantages of the scheme. There is a certain amount of opposition on account of the bad climate and high disease rate of Madagascar.

Bulgarian Unemployment.

The Bulgarian social attaché to the international labor office informs the office that the labor section of the Bulgarian ministry of commerce, industry and labor is preparing a bill relating to employment exchanges and unemployment which is slated to be based upon the relevant decisions of the first, second and third sessions of the international labor conference.

JUST NUTS

DID YOU TAKE A SHOWER BATH?

NO, THERE ONE MISSING?

for love. The memory of it came faintly back to his aged mind as he sat there. He knew that marriage without love would be yoking her in a slavery more cruel than death. He was becoming conscious that it was wrong, terribly wrong.

Like an inspiration, another and nobler thought traveled fast on the heels of it—with the money he would earn for this work, they could go far away, he and Jil-Bett. When he went inside he meant to awaken her and tell her the conclusion he had arrived at. How everjoyed she would be. She should have her choice whether they should go to England or to far-off America.

There was still another reason for his sudden determination to take Jil-Bett away from Katar, and that was to separate her, before it might be too late, from the young stranger, whom he fancied he had discovered standing before their door.

Plan after plan rushed rapidly through his brain. Jil-Bett should never go down into the ocean's depths for pearls again! Never again! Her little hand should never more be strained and roughened by homely toil. He would make a lady of her, as fine as any in the land. "I owe it to her dead father and mother!" How glad and thankful they would be to him if they but knew of his resolve and could speak from the star-gemmed heavens up to which he cast his eyes wistfully.

He realized that in keeping so lovingly a maiden shut away from the world in this far-off place he had done her an injustice. But he would mend all that. It was never too late to do the right thing by his loving little granddaughter.

This conclusion to which he had come made his heart feel very light. He planned still further: Ben-Ali should not know of his intentions when he returned, therefore he could put forth no effort to frustrate them. As soon as the money he was working so hard for was in his hands, Jil-Bett and himself should take the next outgoing steamer, boarding it in the night; when daylight broke, they would be moving away from the shores of Arabia forever.

Not a thing should they take with them save the clothes on their backs. He would warn Jil-Bett that she must not make a confidant of Mrs. Mudge regarding the arrangement; indeed, she must not know of it until the very last moment.

She would be sorry to part with Jil-Bett, the news would go hard with her. He would not have minded Mrs. Mudge knowing about it previously, if it had not been for her husband; he had never thought of much of him. There had always been something about Mudge that made him distrustful of him.

He knew that few good wives were capable of keeping an important secret from their husbands; least of all Mrs. Mudge. What she did not know about she could not disclose.

As he turned to go into the room, he beheld the coveted powder scattered about the floor. Suppressing the cry of delight that rose to his lips by a great effort, he gathered the whole of it up with alacrity and succeeded in draining a full half of the glass ere Jil-Bett discovered the situation.

He would not heed the girl's pleading to rest a little while. "I was never more fine and fit for work, I tell you!" he retorted angrily. "Go to bed again, or sit up, just as you like; I'm going to finish my work on the ruby to-night and win the fortune that will be the reward of it."

He walked quickly to his bench; his shaking hand passed lightly over it to the spot he had laid down the jewel.

"God in heaven! it is not here!" he shrieked. He opened the drawer of the bench. "And the gold—that's gone, too!"

His cries brought—Jil-Bett quickly to his side.

"Oh, grandfather! have you ruined the ruby?" she gasped, vainly endeavoring to still his piercing, piteous cries.

"They're gone—the ruby and the gold! Some one has taken them but a moment since!" he sobbed, clinging to her in his weakness and agonized cries.

"Oh, Jil-Bett, I had them both in my hands. Did you take them to frighten your poor old grandfather?"

She shook her head, declaring: "They must surely be here. The ruby has rolled to the floor, and you have put away the gold, as you promised me you would, and you have forgotten where!"

He shook his old, white, grief-bowed head, still sobbing violently. Jil-Bett lost no time in searching every nook and cranny of the place. Her grandfather was quite right; they had disappeared as though the earth had suddenly opened and swallowed them.

"What am I to do, Jil-Bett?" he cried, clinging to her in mortal terror. "The agent will soon return for the ruby. If I cannot produce it, I will be placed under arrest, and later thrown into prison. Do you hear, Jil-Bett? I will end my days in a prison! That will drive me mad! Save me! Oh, save me, Jil-Bett!"

She was almost overcome with horror and grief at the turn affairs had taken. She firmly believed that during the time she had been so unfortunate as to sleep, under the influence of the deplorable powder her grandfather had crept out of the house and hidden the treasures, and oh, heaven! so securely they would never be likely to be found! He would never be able to recall anything about them.

"Oh, try hard and think, grandfather!" she sobbed. "Did you go outside?"

After a moment's pause he nodded assent. "I sat out on the doorstep and smoked, and planned for you and me!" he cried, wringing his hands in the most abject misery.

With alacrity Jil-Bett hastened out to the doorstep, her grandfather accompanying her.

"Fetch a light, girl!" he cried, irritably: "how could you expect to find anything in the dark? That shows how little sense you have in your head."

"A light would attract attention; that would never do; in no time at all Katar would be aroused and every one would be helping us look for the ruby, which would mean we would never find it then."

THOUSANDS SEE CRACKERS TAKE OPENING GAME

Tech Yellow Jackets Will Battle Florida at Grant Field Today

LOCALS IN VICTORY 11 TO 6

Hitting of Babe Herman, Lanky First Sacker, Creates Sensation Among Fans.

CRACKERS PRESENTED WITH FLORAL DESIGN.

Just before the Crackers started the game, a large floral offering in the shape of a horseshoe was presented to the team by Pete Stamos, owner of the Cafe Minerva. The presentation speech was made by J. A. Tatum, for Mr. Stamos, and he wished the Crackers goodspeed in the race for the pennant. The Cafe Minerva also offered several prizes for the individual players making the first hits, etc.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

The boys who punched typewriters at the Palatka training camp knew what they were talking about when they sent word back that Atlanta would be represented by one of the hardest hitting combinations that has yet graced a Southern league diamond. This fact was demonstrated yesterday at Ponce de Leon when the greatest crowd that has ever watched itself into a Dixie ball orchard watched the Crackers thump the visiting Chattanooga Lookouts, the final score being 11 to 6.

It was the first home game of the season and statistics on the fielding performances show that the Crackers were as nervous as kittens. It is to this that the writer attributes the many errors of commission and omission that were committed and certainly it had something to do with the ease in which the batters flourished at the expense of such sterling mound performers as Benny Karr, Atlanta slaban, and Drake and Cunningham, the twirlers used by the Lookouts in the desperate attempt to halt the Cracker artillerymen.

Get Miserable Start. Drake and Karr were off to miserable starts, the former being fired by Cunningham before a ball was fired in the first frame. The five runs scored by the Crackers in the opening stanza provided safe enough for Karr and it was not long before he had settled down to some ditching that indicates enemies will have no bed of roses later in the campaign. Benny's staff declined to go as he wanted it to in the first inning, however, and nothing but the brilliant stick work of his mates saved him a bad pasting, as the Lookouts made three hits, a base on balls and an error count for three runs. But Benny's comrades were equal to the task and the ground lost was made up quickly.

Long-distance hitting of the Crackers was so perfectly timed that it more than repaid for the rocky slugging of our Mr. Karr, and, too, for the indifferent labor of the Atlanta infield, where the players were uncertain of carrying through successful plays for nearly rapped pellets.

Herman's Hitting Is Feature. The work of Herman in this connection was especially pleasing. Bringing with him to the Crackers the distinction of having been the leading batter in the Western league, Herman is living up to his reputation. Stories having to do with his ability to hit any kind of hurling have not been exaggerated. "Babe" looks like he is going to be found right around the top when the season's averages are completed.

In five attempts Thursday he aced out three hits, two being doubles. His single in the first inning scored two runners. His double in the second was responsible for a couple more and his two-bagger in the fourth figured in a run, as Burke also contributed a two-timer. So Herman was fairly busy hammering in tallies and making them count.

The hitting of the Crackers was not confined to Herman's stunts. No, sir, there was plenty of fine batting to go around and few of the Atlanta players failed to find their way into the hit column. There was Dowd, for instance, who hit safely the first two times at bat and contributed a third in the eighth, when he beat out a beautifully placed bunt. Otto Miller was another who figured in several of the Crackers' tallies. His double in the first score, a couple and his single in the eighth incited an Atlanta attack that netted three runs.

Dowd Busy on Paths. The local pastimers were fairly hoist on the paths. Dowd, out to top the Southern league in thefts—as he did the International league two years ago—was the leading offender against Catcher Morrow, adding a couple to a total that is certain to grow considerably, for Dowd impresses one with the idea that he knows how the trick is done. Joe Guyon also stole a bag.

Fielding for both teams was erratic. There were some brilliant catches and quick-ups, but there was also some very crude work unworked. Glenn Killinger had a couple of errors marked against him, while Moore, Dowd and Herman were also those that misused for the Crackers. Leonard, Barnes, Morrow and Cunningham were the Lookouts guilty of bobbles.

Fine fielding performances were rung up by Eddie Moore, who raced back of second to rob Cunningham after the Chattanooga pitcher had aimed one too hot to handle at Dowd, and by John Anderson, who hurled the crowd in left field to catch Moore's

GORDON NINE WINS AGAIN

Barnesville, Ga., April 19.—While Gordon was scoring 13 runs and garnering 17 hits from the delivery of Barnesville, for Woodbury, the visitors were unable to cross the plate for a conquer and touched Mitchell and Williams for only 4 hits.

Dumas continues to star with the willow. He connected with three balls for a total of 10 bases. Freeman hit 4 safeties in 5 trips; a triple, a double and two singles. Cooper hit for a complete trip, and scratched a single over second. Cameron and Justus connected for two safe blows each.

For Woodbury, Moreland got two of his team's four hits, one going for three stations. Pierson and Blakey got the other two. In the eighth inning, Captain Wade, of Gordon, stole second, third and home.

The B. Y. P. U. convention, which is in session here, were the guests of the Gordon team. Gordon meets Norman park here on Friday and Saturday.

JACKETS IN TWO MEETS

Coach Griffin will take the following men to Seawanhoe with him: Anderson, 100, 220; Barron, 100, 220; Nabbe, Carter, Johnson, 440; Daves, Carter, 880; Cooper, 1 mile; Mitchell, 2 miles; Welchel javelin, shot, discus; Williams, broad jump, high hurdles, pole vault; Rather, low hurdles, high hurdles.

The following men will be sent to Gainesville, Fla., for the Florida state championships and A. A. U. events: Sens, high and low hurdles; Hill, 110 yds.; Roberts, 2 miles.

It is rather an unusual thing for a team to enter two track meets on the same day, but Coach Griffin wanted to give these men a chance to compete in this A. A. U. event. Sens is a Tech student, but is ineligible to compete in college events because he is a transfer from the University of Texas. He can, however, enter A. A. U. meets, which are not held under college eligibility rules, but which are governed by the A. A. U. regulations. Calhoun, who did well in the mile and two-mile last year, has been out to the team as has Mitchell in the 440. Mitchell is a senior, and he needed all his time to put on his studies. He hopes to be able to return later in the season. It is a pity that Mitchell cannot go out and work hard on the 440. Last year was his first year in track, yet he equaled the Tech record in the 440, and won every race he entered. With hard work, he would develop into the best 440 man Tech has ever had.

BARNESVILLE AGGIES LOSE TO G. M. C. TEAM

Milledgeville, Ga., April 19.—(Special.)—G. M. C. defeated the Barnesville Aggies today in a one-sided affair 14 to 2. Davis opened the game for the Cadets and held the Aggies to six hits. He was relieved in the eighth by Parker, who retired the side in order. Carlisle and Dows hit for the circuit, both coming with runners on the bases. The following is the score by innings: R. H. E. Barnesville . . . 010001 000—2 7 5 G. M. C. . . . 331 001 33—14 15 0 Batteries: Cox, Bidly and Scarborough; Dows, Parker and Gullage.

CORBETT'S STATEMENT.

"I knew that Atlanta was a good baseball town and that the Junior Chamber of Commerce did things in a big way," Jack Corbett, president of the Atlanta Baseball company, told The Constitution last night, "but I had no idea that Atlanta was such a great community for the national pastime, nor did I dream that the Junior Chamber of Commerce and other organizations could put over such stupendous undertakings until I gazed at that record-breaking crowd of 14,664 fans Thursday. I believe, of course, that this big attendance will give Atlanta the trophy offered by President John D. Martin. I shall be bitterly disappointed if Atlanta doesn't cop it for the work done by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and others interested in the enterprise, certainly deserves success. We see now that Atlanta fans are back of us in our efforts to put forth a winning combination and our friends may rest assured that the Cracker management and players employed by it are going to fight to the last ditch for every game. We are not going to admit defeat until the last man is out."

DE MAR WINS BOSTON RACE

Boston, April 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—Charles E. DeMar, of Melrose, 35 years old, who as a soldier back from the war, surprised sports followers last year by winning the American marathon road race in record time 11 years after his first success in the event, won it again today. His time of 2 hours, 23 minutes, 47 seconds, sets a new mark, but it was nearly two minutes faster than that of the runner-up, Frank Zuna, of the Mill Rose A. A., New York, and his victory established him as the only man in the 27 years history of this race to win it three times.

AD WOLGAST NOT DEAD, SAYS JONES

Peoria, Ill., April 19.—Tom Jones, who managed Ad Wolgast during his lightweight championship career, declared today that the man named Ed Wolgast, who died at the state hospital for the insane here last Tuesday was not the former lightweight title holder.

JACKETS TO PLAY FLORIDA

Florida Team Has Crew of Heavy Hitters—The Weather Handicapped Tech's Practice.

Tech plays the University of Florida Friday at 3 o'clock at Grant field. Kid Clay is undecided whether to pitch Hines or Enloe, but the chances are that Hines will start the game. Florida will no doubt pitch her ace, Newton, against Tech in the opening game. One game zone, the other one can take care of itself. Newton is a big fellow, over six feet in height, who played half back on the football team, and is a general all around good man. He has won every game he has pitched for the Gators this year, including a 4 to 3 victory over
